Governor Smith Tells You He Is Against Prohibition Our Prosperity Is False So Is Coolidge Economy

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1928, by Star Co.

SEVENTY millions on the radio heard Governor Smith talking plain English that anybody could understand.

He believes government exists for the people—"an elect class should not be the special object of the government's concern." Richard Rumbold put it nearly 300 years ago, "I never could believe that Providence had sent a few men into the world, ready booted and spurred to ride, and millions ready saddled and bridled to be ridden." They beheaded Rumbold in 1695. Governor Smith will be more fortunate.

The Governor's opinion on prohibition—is plain enough. HE IS AGAINST IT. He would change the Eighteenth Amendment, not kill it entirely. He would let each state import or manufacture alcoholic beverages, but "not for consumption in any public place."

The saloon is and ought to be dead, he says. State's control of alcoholic beverages and their sale, such as exists in Canada, would do away with the 15,000 or more speakeasies that can now be found in one city in this country.

Whatever the law, if Governor Smith is elected President, he will enforce it until changed. He will "make an honest endeavor to enforce the Eighteenth Amendment and all laws enacted pursuant thereto."

Governor Smith wants the Democratic party to give all "equal opportunity." He agrees with Napoleon, whose motto was: "Careers open to talent."

Governor Smith praises Grover Cleveland for originating "one of the Democratic party's greatest principles, 'Public office is a public trust.'" The Romans said it first. Salus populi suprema lex esto, and that's the motto of the State of Missouri now.

Grover Cleveland's "rugged honesty" Governor Smith contrasts with "the widespread dishonesty that has honeycombed the Republican administration." The Governor finds "four million men desirous to work and support their families unable to secure employment," and doesn't think much of alleged Republican prosperity.

And the Republican party really isn't economical. The Governor gives figures to prove it.

President Coolidge for last year signed appropriation bills exceeding by $500,000,000 those of the first year of his administration.

Coolidge economy, you are told, is a myth. Taxes have not been reduced in volume, although tax rates have been reduced. Last year the government took $383,000,000 more in income tax than it took in Coolidge's first year. The President would reply that "because people are earning more the Republicans did it."

"Freedom from entangling alliances is a fixed American policy." Ninety per cent of Americans not engaged in international banking would say amen to that line of the Smith speech.

Governor Smith looks upon agriculture as "essentially a public function, affected with a clear and unquestionable public interest." He favors helping the farmers and gives figures to show what has happened to them lately, including a decrease of twenty billion dollars in the value of farm land in five years.

More and better roads for transporting farm products, more canals for "commodities of great bulk least profitable to railroads" are advocated, and an all-American route from the Great Lakes to the ocean.

The Governor would have a waterway to the Gulf through the Mississippi, would take care

Newport, R. I., Aug. 23—A charge of cruelty to her horse was pressed today in the local court by Mrs. Frederic Cameron Church, formerly Muriel Vanderbilt, against her groom, Cornelius Mulcahy. The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals acted as complainant. Mulcahy was fined $5 on the charge. Mrs. Church is a resident of Boston.

BANNON IN POLITICAL PLOT, GILL CHARGES

Denying categorically all charges made by Edward T. Bannon, disbarred New Bedford lawyer and now a state prison inmate, regarding conditions at the prison colony at Norfolk, Supt. Howard B. Gill of the colony today, in a formal report to his superiors and the Governor, charged a political plot.

Supt. Gill asserts that letters were intercepted between Bannon and one Miss Anne Bannon outlining a plot to enlist attorneys, politicians and others in an attack on the Department of Correction and the Board of Parole as part of the coming political campaign.

Referring to Bannon's charges of love affairs between inmates at the colony and employes of the state working there, the superintendent asserts that Bannon "sought to make a scandal out of the harmless flirtation of a good woman, who is not now in our employ for obvious reasons but not because of any complaint by Bannon."

"I never belonged to the Ku Klux Klan; my wife attended St. Xavier's academy in Chicago, a Catholic convent, and in addition I never had any use for the K. K. K." Gill says in his report, in reply to further charges made by the prisoner.

FROTHINGHAM DIES IN SLEEP IN MAINE; WIFE BRINGING BODY HOME

Louis Adams Frothingham of North Easton, representative in Congress from the 14th Massachusetts District, former Lieutenant-Governor and one time Harvard varsity star baseball player, died suddenly in his sleep early today on his yacht at North Haven, Me.

Accompanied by his wife the body was to leave Rockland, Me., by train today, for Boston, to be transferred from the North Station to the Frothingham home at North Easton.

SMITH STAKES ALL ON DRY LAW CHANGE ISSUE

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 23 (INS)—Having definitely thrust prohibition to the front in the presidential campaign by demanding a drastic change in the eighteenth amendment as well as modification of the Volstead law, Governor Smith today anxiously awaited the country's reaction to his acceptance speech.

That Smith, after careful thought, has decided to win or lose the presidency on the sole issue of prohibition, with a smattering of farm relief, was the opinion of virtually every Democratic leader who came here for the notification ceremony.

The first batch of messages which poured into the executive mansion congratulated the Governor on his stand on prohibition. These messages his advisers said, came from voters in virtually every state in the Union.

Confident that the South will remain Democratic despite his wet stand, Smith is said to feel that by taking a decided stand against prohibition he has a good chance of carrying a sufficient number of the normally Republican eastern states to insure his election.

In the active campaign, which is expected to get under way shortly

'BOSSY' MEEK TO NEAL; SEEKS LEGAL AID HERE

A more serious "Bossy" Gillis motored from Newburyport to Boston today, seeking aid and comfort, but got neither.

The "bad boy" Mayor of Newburyport expected, he said, to secure an official O. K. on his disputed gas-filling station from State Fire Marshal George C. Neal.

However, the 82-year-old fire marshal merely patted "Bossy" on the red thatch, figuratively, and told him in a fatherly manner that he was too impetuous.

To the amazement of his accompanying retainers, "Bossy" agreed meekly with the Commonwealth's veteran-of-flames.

Then "Bossy" departed in his touring car "to have chin chin with a big legal guy."

"I haven't any confidence in the lawyer gang," declared "Bossy" to

CURTIS PLEDGES TARIFF REVISION IN R. I. SPEECH

Rocky Point, R. I., Aug. 23 (AP)—Revision of the tariff to afford "full protection" to industry, agriculture and labor was promised by Senator Curtis, the Republican vice-presidential nominee, in opening the Eastern campaign for his party here today at a Republican rally.

"The Republican party promises," he declared, "to revise the tariff so that the products of our factories, the products of our farms and the products of our mines will be fully protected and so that American labor will continue to be protected."

HUB '400' INDEXED IN CUSTOMERS' FILES OF 'DUGOUT' LIQUOR SHOP

The names of prominent bankers, brokers, business men and society people on Beacon Hill were found in a card index seized by police today in a raid on Baker's Ticket Agency, 9 Devonshire st.

Each customer had a card on which was written a complete description, including racial characteristics and the person who sponsored him or her.

An old-fashioned vault of considerable dimensions was found to be fitted out as a drinking place, and over the door was the sign, "The Dugout."

Spotted over the walls of the main office were innumerable buttons, any one of which when rung gave the alarm in "The Dugout," and the liquor was promptly disposed of.

Although the police raid was unexpected, taking place while one of the clerks was discussing this and that with a pretty girl on the stairs, the officers succeeded in getting only half a pint of liquor.

It was the second time they had gone into the place in 48 hours, and

GIRL LAYS LOVE BLIGHT TO BEAUTY DOWN SOUTH

A dark-eyed "southern beauty" shattered the romance of Miss Rose Kahn, 25, Radcliffe graduate, of Nashua, N. H., and Ernest Lovett Garceau, 22, Harvard graduate, it was declared today by none other than Miss Kahn herself.

The girl, who cancelled her marriage intentions at Cambridge within two days after Garceau filed them, declared she had learned Garceau's trip to New Orleans, begun yesterday, was for the purpose of meeting the southern beauty.

But when Garceau reaches New Orleans, he will be amazed, Miss Kahn asserted, to be confronted with Boston newspapers carrying the stories of the intentions and Miss Kahn's cancellation. The Radcliffe girl said she had sent copies of the papers to the girl in New Orleans by air mail.

"I want this girl to know that

GOODWIN URGES JAIL FOR INSURANCE 'RING'

Former Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin today publicly asked for criminal prosecution of lawyers involved in defrauding insurance companies, and indirectly the people of Massachusetts, on false automobile injury claims.

He declared that there is little hope for a thorough cleaning up of the situation by the Bar Associations.

His statement was a follow-up on his speech before the Somerville Republican Club, in which he asserted that insurance companies not only were suspiciously easy in settling claims, but had settled thousands more injury cases than were recorded at the motor registry.

Acting on the latter disclosure, Representative Thomas N. Ashton

FIANCEE BLAMES SOUTHERN BEAUTY FOR HARVARD LOVE WRECK

SAYS BEAU HAS GIRL AT HOME

Mr. Garceau had a girl here, just as I found out he has a girl in New Orleans," declared Miss Kahn.

"I have bought 50 copies of the Cambridge edition of the Boston Evening American and have sent most of them to the girl. I wanted to be sure she got at least one."

Garceau, who was graduated from Harvard last June, applied for a marriage license in Cambridge Monday.

Subsequently he boarded a train with the announcement that he was going to New Orleans.

Then Miss Kahn, a day later, telephoned the Cambridge marriage clerk's office and announced that she wanted the license cancelled, but refused to give any reason.

Later, Miss Kahn appeared at the City Hall in person and asked for a copy of the intentions. This was refused her with the announcement that it was not the practice to give out copies of marriage intentions that had been annulled.

The young woman intimated that she would get a lawyer in her effort to secure a copy of the intentions, but she refused to give any reason why it was so imperative that she have a copy of the document.

Miss Kahn, who is a music teacher, apparently came to Cambridge from her home in Nashua, without the knowledge of her parents.

Her father declared that he knew nothing of the contemplated marriage, but he admitted he did know young Garceau. The father said he himself was strongly opposed to any such marriage.

At the Harvard Liberal Club friends of young Garceau said that he had been attending summer school at Harvard, but had talked about going to New Orleans.

The raid was made by Officers McGinnis, Hollien and Eunson of Capt. Patterson's office. While it was going on Capt. Skillings of Division 2 walked in and stepping up to McGinnis, whom he did not know, asked:

"How long do you think you're going to sell liquor here?"

SMITH GULLIBLE ON RUM ISSUE, SAYS FORGRAVE

Condemning the liquor stand of Governor Smith in his presidential acceptance speech, William M. Forgrave, superintendent of the Massachusetts Anti-Saloon League, today said: "Governor Smith is either gullible or else he thinks the American people have an excessive amount of gullibility. The American people never outlawed the saloon. They outlawed the alcoholic beverage traffic and wherever or however it is brought back, the result will be the same."

'BOSSY' TO BE 'A BIG SHOT YET!'

reporters, "but I'm no lawyer myself and I've got to get the best I can.

"Next year though, I'm going to law school. I'll bet you five bucks right here on the spot that I'll neap up that four-year course in three years. Then I can figure out the high-brow whereases for myself.

"That's a promise. Fifteen years ago I promised the trusting people of Newburyport that I'd be their mayor and lead them out of the wilderness. Well—I'm mayor, ain't I, and you hear of Newburyport now.

"There's a promise kept, even though it did shot the shirts of the scared highbrows up their backs like curtains.

"Now I'm making a promise to be a lawyer and get elected Governor of the State. What do you think of that? Write it right down boys—Governor! The Big Shot! And the first thing I do when I wipe my feet at the State House door is give this guy Judge Jones the leg."

"Bossy," seated in his car in the rear of the State House, mused for a moment—perhaps over the sentence of 330 days and the fines of $1140 imposed yesterday on him by Judge Jones in connection with the Newburyport mayor's operation of an illegal gas filling station.

"Say," the mayor cried then, "I might even get a vaudeville contract out of this yet."

"Bossy's" demeanor was entirely different from that displayed less than 10 minutes previously when he was in conversation with the aged fire marshal.

COUNCIL MUST ACT.

Seeking for an official sanction of his gas station and a license to operate, the red-headed mayor was a bit taken aback when Neal told him no license could be issued until the Newburyport City Council had granted a permit.

Marshal Neal gazed upon "Bossy" in a fatherly, speculative way.

"You are a bit too impetuous, young man," said the patriarchal marshal.

"I know I am," agreed 'Bossy' meekly, "but I try to do what's right. I'm a good guy, but this whole thing is a mess. Morally, I'm right, but legally I guess I'm all wet.

"I've done some good things in my city, but there are those in the community who are riding me. I may be a little loose in my conversation, but I'm not taking back anything because I only speak the truth."

"Bossy" told the fire marshal he intended building a 100-car garage on the same site, but the calm fire marshal advised him that no car could be housed in such a building until the City Council had granted a permit.

WHO'S BOSS OF TOWN?

The conference ended with nothing gained for the red-headed Mayor, and he went out to his car, where he posed for pictures. Then, with his companions, he drove away.

While "Bossy" was otherwise employed in the Hub he won a skinny victory—in absentia—in the equity motion session of the superior court.

Although he probably did not know of the action, Mayor Gillis won out when Judge Qua denied petition for a temporary injunction against "Bossy's" gas station in Newburyport.

The bill in equity was brought by Victor A. Craig and J. Louisa A. Crole, who live at 110 High st., Newburyport, directly opposite the gas station.

In their bill the plaintiffs charged that the Gillis station is a "nuisance" for many reasons, among them the constant "raucous noises, loud outcries and shots to passersby."

Judge Qua issued an order of notice returnable August 29.

Before leaving Newburyport today "Bossy" had a brush with one of his policemen, George Adams.

Patrolman Adams appeared at Gillis' gas station and began taking names, licenses and registration numbers of drivers buying gas. He had jotted down the figures on three drivers when "Bossy" came roaring up.

"Who sent you down here?" he demanded of the policeman.

"It's on Judge Jones' order, your honor," replied the officer.

"Well, who the h—l is boss of this town—Jonesy or me?" demanded Gillis.

Then he ordered the policeman into his own (Gillis') car, drove to the center of town and dropped the policeman off.

"Catch some crooks," ordered "Bossy," tersely, and returned to the gas station.

When he arrived back at the disputed filling station painters were painting a sign with his name on it and were preparing for painting a larger sign—eight feet by four feet—carrying the legend:

"August 26—'Bossy's' Birthday—32 Years in City—'Bad Boy'—Good Mayor."

After a hasty scanning of the gas station situation "Bossy" climbed into his car and headed for the Hub.

And while "Bossy" was buzzing over the rain-wet turnpike toward Boston, Ernest Foss, the lawyer who prosecuted him yesterday on charges in connection with operation of "Bossy's" new gas station, was heading out of Newburyport with Mrs. Foss.

Mayor Gillis, following his court appearance, had a warrant sworn out against Mrs. Foss, charging her with carrying a loaded revolver the night before the Fourth of July.

According to retainers in the Foss household, Mr. and Mrs. Foss have gone to Silver Beach, N. H., for a vacation.

received the pamphlet which Bannon protested was being circulated at the colony, was transferred to the Tewksbury colony two weeks before Bannon made his original protest to me and two months before he wrote his letter of protest to the Governor."

This letter of protest was published exclusively in the Boston Evening American, revealing for the first time the underlying trouble in the transfer of Bannon and others from the prison colony, where they were awaiting parole, back to cells at State Prison where parole is now unlikely for some time.

"Irregularities of the sort referred to by Bannon are an inevitable part of life at such an institution," reports Gill.

R. I. HEARS SENATOR CURTIS

The Kansas Senator emphasized that agriculture demanded increased duties on farm products. After citing the Democratic attitude on the tariff as expressed in the party's platforms from 1892 to 1928 he asserted that party "now hopes to fool the American people by its claim that it will favor an equitable distribution of the tariff benefits and burdens among all."

Republicans, he said, are proud of their record of the last eight years and go to the people on that record. He stated that the national debt had been reduced by about $7,000,000,000 and that taxes have been cut four times in that period.

He declared the party "stands by the policies of President Coolidge and if elected will carry out those policies." He spoke of Herbert Hoover, the Republican presidential nominee, as one who "knows the condition of the American farmers, of American labor and of American business men, and has their future welfare at heart."

"We, of the agricultural section," Senator Curtis said, "are deeply interested in the question of imports. We need protection for the products of the farm, just as you need protection for the products of your factories.

"Do you know that even now the imports of agricultural products displace the American farm production in excess of 60,000,000 acres? The value of such imports amounts to over $3,000,000,000 annually of which $2,000,000,000 are products which can be grown on our own farms. We want protection on all competitive products of the farm, many of which are now let in at too low a rate of duty.

"In the Republican acts, products of the farm have been protected. Time has demonstrated, I am sorry to say, that some of the duties are not high enough. . . . I challenge a comparison, however, between the rate of duty fixed in the Democratic tariff acts, the Wilson and Underwood acts, and those of the Republican tariff acts.

"Democrats have never enacted a tariff law which protected American labor. They have never passed a tariff law which did not injure or destroy legitimate business; they have never enacted a tariff law that protected the products of the farm.

"In fact in all their tariff measures the large majority of the products of the farm were put upon the free list.

$1500 IN GEMS RECOVERED BY FLEET COP

Jewelry valued at $1500 and reported to have been stolen in the Back Bay several nights ago was recovered by Patrolman John J. Gorham of Division 5 after he had captured the alleged thief in an alleyway at the rear of the Hotel Savoy, Columbus ave., early today.

The arrest followed a chase from the Hotel Ritz along Columbus ave. during which Patrolman Gorham fired a shot at the fleeing man. Cornered in the alleyway he submitted to arrest and gave his name as James J. Collins, 27, of Hancock st., Worcester.

According to the police, Collins was seen by Patrolman Gorham entering the Hotel Ritz in company with another man. A bundle carried by Collins excited the suspicion of the officer and he followed the men into the hotel to investigate.

At the approach of the patrolman, Collins, the police stated, dropped the bundle and ran out. Patrolman Gorham pursued him and after shouting a command to halt fired a shot.

Following the capture of Collins the patrolman returned to the hotel and recovered the bundle. In it was a bottle containing an assortment of necklaces, pendants and bracelets.

The jewelry was the property of Edward A. Nicolson, a jewelry salesman, of Wyvern st., Jamaica Plain. It was stolen from a car parked in Newbury st., and identified today by Mrs. Nicolson, whose husband is out of town.

26 STITCHES ARE TAKEN IN HER WOUND

With blood streaming from a wound in which 26 stitches later were taken, Mrs. Annie McMullen, Revere dog-breeder, today pleaded for—and saved—the life of the chow dog that had bitten her.

It was her love for all dogs, and not regard for her own property, that spared the life of the offending canine, for the chow was the property of her friend, Mrs. Helen Silva of North Shore rd., Revere.

The women met on the railroad bridge in Revere st., Mrs. Silva leading the chow on a leash, and stopped to discuss the loss of another dog, either lost or stolen from Mrs. Silva. The chow suddenly leaped upon Mrs. McMullen and fastened his teeth in her leg.

Screaming in pain, Mrs. McMullen fell, while her friend frantically and unsuccessfully sought to loosen the dog's grip.

Patrolman Maynard Rogers, attracted by the screams, clubbed the chow into submission and was just about to shoot him when Mrs. McMullen, unable to rise and weakened by loss of blood, made her plea for the animal.

The patrolman rushed Mrs. McMullen to the office of Dr. Harry L. Masters, where the stitches were taken. Dr. Norman Harris, city veterinary, ordered the chow restrained.

MAN SHOT IN EYE BY BOYS IS DYING

Shot through the left eye by two rifle bullets fired, police say, by two boys at target practice, Richard Canty, 56, of Proctor ave., Revere, is reported dying at Massachusetts General Hospital.

Two boys, who were found with a .22 caliber rifle near the scene of the shooting, were taken to Revere police headquarters for questioning, and one of them admitted firing at a target tacked to a tree, according to the police.

Canty was crossing a field near his home when he was wounded. One o fthe bullets is believed to have penetrated his brain.

His cries were heard by Patrolman George MacDonald of the Metropolitan police, who lives near by, and with the help of neighbors MacDonald carried Canty home. Later he was removed to the hospital, where his name is on the danger list.

ROMA PLANE WILL HOP FOR PORTLAND FRIDAY

Hartford, Ct., Aug. 23 (AP)—The Bellanca plane Roma, in which Count Cesare Sabelli plans to fly to Rome, will take off from Brainard Field tomorrow or Saturday for Old Orchard, Me., stopping en route at Portland, it was announced today. An instrument expert from Brooklyn, who is expected at the field today, will complete the work of checking the ship and its equipment and the Roma will then be ready for her long flight.

A few test flights will be made at Old Orchard before the hop-off for Rome, it was stated today.

'JAIL' INSURANCE FRAUDS, SAYS GOODWIN

today filed a bill at the State House under which the insurance companies would have to submit full information on claims and [illegible].

"We cannot expect much from the bar associations in the cleaning up of the present state of affairs," said Goodwin. "The only proper authorities to prosecute this matter are the attorney-general and the district attorneys. If these authorities hold investigations, we can expect some results.

"As I pointed out in my speech before the Somerville Republican Club, the insurance companies are altogether too loose with the money of the auto owners of Massachusetts, as shown by the [illegible] for overhead and operations, a figure that is exorbitant.

"From the time of its inception compulsory auto insurance in Massachusetts has been opposed by the insurance companies and they are now doing all they can to make it as unpopular as possible, as they fear creation of a state fund.

"It is in pursuance of this policy that fraudulent claims are settled by the companies without proper investigation.

"Only this morning a prominent East Boston business man called me and said his car had been in a slight collision. He was amazed to hear that $100 had been paid by an insurance company to one of the occupants of the other car for a personal injury when nobody had been injured and nobody had been to see him to make inquiries. This is proof of the lax methods used in settling many claims."

Chicago Schools to Use Only "America First" Histories

Chicago, Aug. 23 (AP)—Chicago's "America First" historians have won their victory over "pro-British textbooks."

Next year school children will study a new set of history books, sanctioned by Mayor Thompson's special history investigator, Congressman John J. Gorman.

TAKE SWIG CASE TO SUPREME COURT

Counsel for Simon Swig today notified the State ballot law commission a writ of prohibition has been petitioned for in the Supreme Court in the case of Page versus Swig pending before the commission.

On the protest lodged against Swig's candidacy for the House from Ward 12, Roxbury, the Rev. Charles L. Page claims Swig is ineligible and disqualified because of less than a year's residence in the district.

Counsel for Swig contends the commission cannot accept jurisdiction because the Constitution says the House is the sole judge of the qualifications of its members. Despite this contention, the commission accepted jurisdiction.

Pending the testing of the point, the commission today continued its scheduled hearing on the facts in the case until Thursday.

BAUER REVOKES GENERAL ELEC. A. A. LICENSE

Mayor Ralph S. Bauer of Lynn today ordered revoked the amusement license held by the General Electric Company Employes' Athletic Association, which has a large field in West Lynn where the city's most important outdoor sport events are conducted.

He acted after repeated arrests by the police of outsiders who conducted "crooked" games of chance at the annual field day and carnival of the association being held this week.

One of the games was a "toss the ball in the bucket" affair, in which the customer could not win because a lever was used to move the bottom of the bucket so that the ball would bounce out each time.

Another was a "knock the three kittens of the fence" game, in which the customer could send two to the ground, but never could topple the third unless the man behind the scenes was his friend.

Two men were fined a total of $75 for taking money from John McGovern in the second game. They took $12, the court found, and let McGovern win $2 once, and so they were ordered to make restitution of $10.

A boy of 16 years spent $3.25 in the other game and in that case four men were fined. Police closed up seven other games last night. Those conducting the carnival said they had no knowledge of the conditions governing the games.

DEATH CLAIMS FROTHINGHAM IN SLEEP

His death was revealed when Cong. Frothingham failed to answer a call to breakfast aboard the yacht "Winsome" in which the Frothingham party were homeward bound after cruising in Maine waters.

George B. Baker of Boston, who has a summer home at North Haven, said Cong. Frothingham's heart failed apparently late in the night or early today. He said the congressman had appeared in perfect health late yesterday when he left after making arrangements for dinner today.

Athlete, lawyer, soldier, statesman and business man, Congressman Frothingham's life embraced many lines of endeavor, in all of which he achieved success.

Born in Jamaica Plain July 12, 1871, the son of Thomas Brooks and Annie Pearson (Lunt) Frothingham, he was a descendant of William F Frothingham, who landed at Charlestown in 1630.

His early education was obtained in the public schools and in Adams Academy, Quincy, and young Frothingham entered Harvard in 1889. He immediately became a prominent figure, making the varsity baseball nine and becoming one of the best captains and ball players ever turned out in Cambridge. In later years there was considerable good-natured rivalry between Congressman Frothingham and the late Congressman James A. Gallivan as to who was the better player.

He got his A. B. at Harvard in 1893, and three years later won an LL. B. at Harvard law school, being admitted to the bar in 1896 immediately after graduation.

The next year young Frothingham was appointed private secretary to Congressman W. C. Lovering and in 1898 served as assistant attorney to the metropolitan park commission.

When the Spanish-American war took place the young lawyer obtained a commission as second lieutenant in the Marine Corps, serving on the U. S. S. Yankee as commander of the marine guard in Cuban waters.

He was elected a State representative from 1901 to 1905 and during the last two years was Speaker of the House, being chosen unanimously. He was a candidate for Mayor of Boston in 1905, receiving the highest vote a Republican had been given in years, and in 1905 was elected Lieutenant-Governor, serving until 1911.

In 1916 he was alternate-at-large to the Republican national convention, later became a lecturer at Harvard, and was the author of "A Brief History of the Constitution and Government of Massachusetts."

In 1917 he was appointed a colonel in the 13th Regiment, M. S. G., and was a major in the U. S. army in 1918, also being a member of the commission to visit soldiers and sailors of Massachusetts in France. He was first elected to Congress in 1919 and has been a member of that body continuously since. He was connected with numerous banks and other business institutions.

Frothingham Tributes

GOVERNOR FULLER, who ordered the State House flags half-staffed—I was shocked to hear of the death of Congressman Frothingham. Congressman Frothingham has been a distinguished public servant and has served the State as a member of the Legislature, speaker of the House of Representatives, as lieutenant-governor, and as congressman. He had a fine and well-deserved reputation as a man of integrity and ability. His friends, of whom I take pride in being one, will mourn his loss. Massachusetts has lost a distinguished son and a faithful public servant.

CONGRESSMAN EDITH NOURSE ROGERS. Congressman Frothingham's death is a great shock to me, which I feel very keenly. He was a gentleman in the finest sense of the word.

CONG. FREDERICK W. DALLINGER—The news of Congressman Frothingham's death comes as a terrible shock to me. We were classmates at Harvard. We had always been most intimate. His was a splendid character—one of the finest. He not only never did anything wrong, but he never thought anything wrong. He was admired and respected by his colleagues on both sides of the House. His death is a great loss to Massachusetts.

MAYOR NICHOLS—In the death of Cong. Frothingham the commonwealth and nation have sustained a great loss. My first acquaintance with him was when he became speaker of the Massachusetts House. There his ability and fairness won the friendship and respect of all. I regret his death more deeply than I can say.

PRES. HENRY I. HARRIMAN, Boston Chamber of Commerce—I have just learned with deep regret of the death of Cong. Frothingham. I have known him for many years and consider him one of our ablest statesmen. In his death the commonwealth loses a brilliant and able man.

EX-FIRE COMMISSIONER JOHN R. MURPHY—I have been acquainted with Congressman Frothingham a number of years and always looked upon him as one of the ablest men in the State. He was a man of liberal ideas and broad-minded in every respect.

Boy Scouts Will See Newspaper Movie

More than 200 Boy Scouts of America, under the leadership of Edward S. Roche of Greater Boston Council of the organization, visit Loew's State Theater this afternoon as guests of the Boston Evening American to witness the two-reel educational film, "The Making of a Newspaper."

This is the type of motion picture officials of the Boy Scouts of America are anxious to have their members see, because of its instructive character. They were much pleased at the opportunity presented the boys by this newspaper.

This evening 200 members of the famous YD Club, under the direction of "Bill" Snyder, will view the film as special guests of the Boston Evening American. Their officers, likewise, are happy over the chance given their members to enjoy this fine picture, which shows the making of an up-to-date newspaper from the minute the news reached the office until it is on the street on the front page.

Those who attend the theater today as guests of the American are permitted to remain and see the rest of the regular bill, including the feature picture, "Forbidden Hours," with Ramon Novarro and Renee Adoree in the leading roles, an "Our Gang" comedy entitled "Crazy House," and a good stage program, embracing Fred Rich and his Hotel Astor orchestra, and Edward Sheriff and company in a snappy acrobatic act.

REAL REEL PICTURE

From the very beginning, when the sinking of the British freighter Antinoe is shown, the newspaper film grips the spectator. It shows actual newsreel "shots" of this disaster and the epic rescue of the crew by the crew of the U. S. steamship President Roosevelt.

Next is shown the manner in which this big news story is handled in a modern newspaper plant, from the time of the news "flash" until it is in the hands of the reader.

The picture takes the spectator through the editorial department, where the story is written, edited with the headline written; thence to the composing room where it is "set up," followed by trips through the art department where wireless photographs are prepared for making "cuts" in the engraving department.

The spectator goes forward to the delivery and mailing rooms and by the time the paper reaches the street or home, the observer is filled with wonder at the magic of it all.

SPECIAL GUESTS

Never again will he buy a newspaper without a fuller realization of the danger and initiative that go into the creation of every page. Never more will he hand over two cents to his favorite newsboy without visualizing the numerous processes through which the paper passes before reaching him and which are shown in the picture.

Resources of 28 Hearst newspaper plants were utilized in filming "The Making of a Newspaper."

By the end of this week more than 2000 members of 18 leading civic organizations will have witnessed this thrilling film as special guests of the Boston American. Tomorrow afternoon, 250 members of Women's Republican Club of Massachusetts, under direction of Mrs. Nelson W. Howard, director of the organization, will see the film.

Other organizations, whose members will witness the film this week are:

Boston College of Business Administration, Crosscup-Pishon Post, American Legion, Massachusetts League of Women Voters, Boston Rotary Club, Boston City Club, Girls' City Club of Boston, Boston Swimming Association, Y. W. C. A. and International Institute of Y. W. C. A.

19 FRIGIDAIRE MODELS ARE SHOWN

A new and much-changed Frigidaire, amazingly quiet, with still more beautiful lines, more efficient, and with many other improvements, was presented the public today by the Frigidaire Corporation, subsidiary of General Motors. Nineteen different models in a wide scale of prices were shown.

"In presenting the new Frigidaire we have taken one of the most important and progressive steps in the history of our organization," said H. W. Newell, general manager of the New England distributorship.

"You can't hear 't start, you can't hear it stop, you can't hear it run. The noiseless operation of the new machine makes it a marvel of engineering genius."

There are three lines: a series of de luxe cabinets, white and glacier gray in color, finished inside and out in porcelain; a somewhat similar line, selling at lower prices, with snow-white duco finish or pastel shades on special order; two cabinets of five feet capacity for small families and a series of eight apartment house boxes.

The new models are beautifully trimmed with satin finished hardware. The doors snap shut like those in a costly limousine. Mechanical parts have been made more accessible, but at the same time are completely concealed.

Radio amplifiers played a large part in developing the new Frigidaire. Exhaustive tests were made for months to eliminate every machine sound.

They were presented at a Copley-Plaza meeting, which culminated three months of record sales.

In addition to complete displays at Frigidaire headquarters, 743 Boylston st., the new Frigidaire will be presented to the public for the next two weeks by the Jordan Marsh Company.

TROOPERS IN 12 SPENCER RAIDS

Spencer, Aug. 23—Led by Lieut. Albert Dasey of the Holden barracks, 43 State troopers and Chief of Police Louis Grandmont of Spencer conducted a wholesale raid here visiting 12 places, arresting 12 persons and seizing thousands of dollars' worth of liquor.

It was the largest raid in the history of the town, and was carried out while 1000 persons looked on. Summonses have been issued for the appearance in court of several proprietors of places where liquor was found, in addition to the 12 taken into custody.

Among the places raided, at several of which it was necessary for the officers to force their way in were the Spencer House, where no liquor was found, but Fred Snay, the proprietor, will be summoned; lunchrooms, stores, poolrooms, private homes, and the Eagle Hotel.

ROGERS 'ROPES' HEART, SAYS 'DOT' STONE

New London, Ct., Aug. 23 (AP)—Another feminine heart is at Will Rogers' feet. It belongs to Dorothy Stone, and it is there because of the famous paragrapher's offer to replace her father, Fred Stone, in the musical comedy that will be her vehicle to Broadway stardom this fall.

Dorothy says of Will's offer: "No man in all this world could better replace daddy in our new show than Will Rogers. His unselfish offer to give up his plans for the coming season and to sacrifice the income it would bring him to fill the vacancy caused by daddy's accident is a wonderful thing. Will Rogers has fastened his lariat around my heart.

"I am quite sure that more than concern over his own condition, Daddy's greatest worry since the accident has been the fact that many people who had planned to appear with us in our new play would be forced to seek other employment late in the season after most of the casting for fall plays has already been completed in New York.

"Under the present arrangement we will continue with our original plans and the play will go into rehearsal next Monday at the New Amsterdam Theater in New York."

FIRST BYRD SHIP SAILS SOON

New York, Aug. 23 (AP)—Comdr. Richard E. Byrd's expedition to the Antartic gets definitely under way Saturday with the sailing of the barque City of New York, first of three ships which will carry his planes and equipment to the hopping off place for the Pole.

Aboard the stout little ship will be 31 of the 70 men who comprise the expeditionary force, the largest and best equipped ever to dare the South Polar Seas on a mission of exploration.

Comdr. Byrd and the remainder of the party will sail some time in September on the whaler Larsen and the Chelsea, the other two ships of the flotilla. They will carry with them the expedition's four planes and the remainder of the equipment.

The City of New York is under the command of Capt. Frederick C. Meville, who has been going to sea since he was 13 years of age. He is now 44.

Snakes Kill 20,000 in India; Animals Claim 2000

Calcutta, Aug. 23 (INS)—Snakes caused nearly 20,000 deaths in British India in 1927, according to statistics made public here.

Wild animals, including tigers leopards, wolves, elephants and crocodiles were responsible for more than 2000 deaths.

SALEM THUGS FLEE BULLETS

In spite of shots fired at them by two policemen, two men who broke into three filling station in Lynn early today made their getaway.

They were discovered in the act of entering a fourth station in Vinnen sq., Salem, whcih is near the Swampscott line. Patrolmen Horton and Frazer of the Swampscott police were doing cruising duty in that vicinity and spied them.

Abandoning their car, the three fled and the police gave chase but lost the trail in the woods. In the car were found burglar's tools and miscellaneous loot from one of the robbed station. The cash total of the three breaks was only $1.20.

EVELYN NESBIT FACES QUIZ IN RUM 'WAR'

New York, Aug. 23 (INS)—Rum war clouds gathered threateningly over New York today.

A threat to "burst the rum trust wide open" was discerned in the questioning at the Federal building of former Police Inspectors Samuel Belton and Edwin Post, who know the city's night life from A to Z.

Simultaneously, United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle, obviously angry, stormed home from his vacation for a showdown with Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney-general in charge of dry enforcement.

It was reported the federal inquisitors were anxious to question Evelin Nesbit, former wife of Harry Thaw, to learn what she knows about the night club "racket." Evelyn, in the role of chief hostess, managed a club called Chez Evelyn, in 50th, near Seventh ave., for five months for a man named Martin.

The venture was a flop. Evelyn, quitting the game, declared that the overhead was too big for the receipts. Most of the "overhead," she said, was in the form of tribute for the privilege of running the club. The investigators want to know who got the "overheard."

Sam Belton, no longer in the police department, was head of the new defunct special service squad during the last two years of Commissioner Richard W. Enright's administration.

Post also has left the department. He formerly was attached to the Adams St. station, Brooklyn, and was known as the "Tenderloin expert."

Besides Belton and Post, former Inspector Joseph Howard and Capt. Thomas Leahy hurried to the Federal building. Each had received an imperative 'invitation" to tell what he knew.

2 NEW VICTIMS OF PARALYSIS

Two more cases of infantile paralysis were reported today in Waltham when Loretta Donlon, four, of Liverpool lane, and Fildred Nelson, four, of Bright st., were taken to Waltham Hospital.

This brings the total in Waltham to 32. There were no cases reported in Watertown today, this being the first day this week that none was reported. The Watertown total is 51.

Watertown schools, according to present plans, will open on September 11, as scheduled, Dr. Charles O. Chase, chairman of the school committee, announced today in reply to letters from parents who thought there might be a postponement because of the epidemic. Waltham schools open one day earlier.

NEW ALBANIAN MONARCHY RELIEVES ITALY OF WORRY

London Aug. 23 (AP)—Ahmed Zogu, 33-year-old former mountain chieftain, recently President of the republic, will become king of Albania Saturday when the constituent assembly announces restoration of the monarchy Both Italy and Jugoslavia look upon Albania in its present state as a menace to their frontiers. Thus in the eyes of the Belgrade government Rome, by creating the Albanian crown and extending its influence over that country, relieves itself of this menace at the same time leaving it a continual source of worry to Jugoslavia.

Happy to Be in Jail

New York, Aug. 23 (AP)—For driving too fast in a car with Greta Nissen of the stage and screen, Jack Darcy, artist, is in the hoosegow. He was fined $25 and had the wherewithal, but, as Miss Nissen explains: "Mr. Darcy does not want to be set free. He wants the experience. You see he's never been in jail before."

'SOLID SOUTH' SPLIT WIDE OPEN, SAYS STRAW VOTE ANALYST

TOTALS FOR HOOVER CLIMB

Chicago, Aug. 23—A political revolution is getting under way in the Southern States. It may develop into the biggest piece of news in the United States on the morning of November 7.

This was today's outstanding feature in the nationwide straw vote being conducted by the Hearst newspapers.

"May" is used advisedly. The revolt may in the end be comparable to present indications in the midwest Republican strongholds, where the wet and farmer defections may reduce the normal G. O. P. majorities, but not be sufficient to turn the states' electoral vote over to the opposition.

However, both the balloting and information gathered from many reliable sources point to an upheaval all over the southland, the eventual proportions of which no one can foresee with any degree of definiteness thus early in the clash.

HATE TAMMANY

Despite all that Josephus Daniels can do, North Carolinians see red with the mere mention of Tammany. The attempt to sell Governor Smith to the Carolinians is meeting with such strenuous opposition that, unless the rebellion is brought under control, impartial observers believe the state can be kept in the doubtful column right up to the counting of the ballots.

What seems to be worrying the "regulars" is that Hoover is appealing to the business element in North Carolina, and particularly the leaders of that class, who recall that Woodrow Wilson picked him for what was perhaps the most difficult single job of the war.

At first blush, it would appear that nothing short of a miracle could shunt North Carolina into the Republican column. And yet, President Coolidge rolled up a total of 191,753 votes to 284,270 for Davis, four years ago. That is, Coolidge received about 40 per cent of the total vote.

SMITH LEADS

The first tabulation of the straw vote gives Hoover 212 to 291 for Governor Smith. This vote was in the cities. It is conceded by some of the Democratic leaders that Hoover will be a great deal stronger than the average Republican candidate out in the country districts of the State, particularly among the women.

Virtually the same conditions that obtain in North Carolina are noticeable in the sister state to the south and throughout Florida, Georgia, Alabama, and, of course, Tennessee.

Georgia gave Davis a plurality of 92,000 four years ago, not an insurmountable barrier, if the under currents should prove more volcanic as the campaign nears the end.

The straw vote, mostly from the cities, shows Governor Smith in the lead with a total of 8364 to 6229 for Hoover.

Davis' plurality in Alabama was 67,961 in a total vote of 166,610. If Hoover's prohibition stand and his economic views can be sold pretty generally throughout the state, the experts grant he may throw an awful scare into the Jeffersonians before November.

HOOVER ON TOP

Florida, too, like southern California, is growing by leaps and bounds, due in large measure to the influx of business men from all sections of the country.

Want Hoover for 3 Speeches "Sure" in N. E.

Washington, Aug. 23—When Herbert Hoover reaches this city, he will be urged to speak at least three times in New England during the campaign. He is especially wanted in Boston, Providence and Hartford. His petitioners say they will not take "no" for their answer.

SMITH PLAN TO END DRY ERA, SAYS LOWMAN

Washington, Aug. 23 (AP)—Seymour Lowman, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, in charge of prohibition, said today that the changes in the prohibition law advocated by Governor Smith would "end prohibition and all benefits that have accrued thereunder."

Lowman said:

He wants to have Congress immediately increase the alcoholic content from one-half of one per cent to some higher point which would give us old-time beer. He tried to do that in New York by passing the Walker beer bill, but the United States Supreme Court held the act unconstitutional.

He wants to modify the 18th amendment so as to permit each state to determine whether liquor can be manufactured, imported and sold within such states. That plan would throw us back into the old chaos that existed before adoption of the 18th amendment, when we had a dry Kansas and a wet Missouri, but boze never recognized state lines.

Dr. Butler Calls Smith Dry Stand "Constructive"

New York, Aug. 23 (AP)—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, Republican, who a few days ago wrote a letter to the New York Times, criticizing the stand of Herbert Hoover on prohibition and national defense, made the following statement to the Herald-Tribune on Governor Smith's speech of acceptance.

"The address of acceptance of Governor Smith is a statesmanlike document, well conceived, well phrased and admirably expressed. It shows the Governor at his best—and we New York Republicans know by long experience how good that is. His setting forth of the case of the Democratic party in this campaign is able and on a high plane. This can only be met by like or better arguments on a similarly high plane.

"His treatment of prohibition is frank, constructive and forward-facing. The proposed modification of the Volstead act is fully within the present powers of Congress and would perhaps relieve to some slight extent the difficulties to the present situation. It would not, however, reach the root of the matter, which is the 18th amendment itself."

SOVIET WON'T LET BRITISH WARSHIP TAKE BODIES

Moscow, Aug. 23 (AP)—The Soviet government has refused Great Britain permission to send a warship for the remains of the crew of the recently raised submarine L-55, sunk in Russian waters in 1919 while assisting the "White" Russians in their fight against Bolshevist rule. The government announced it would not object to the bodies being taken back to England aboard the warship of a friendly nation, such as Norway, or on a British merchantman. The refusal of Russia follows international custom in cases where diplomatic relations are ruptured.

LIGGETT HEADS BOARD OF WINCHESTER CO.

New Haven, Ct., Aug. 23 (AP)—Louis K. Liggett, chairman of the board of directors of Winchester Repeating Arms Company, has been elected chairman of the executive committee in place of Frank G. Drew, president, who becomes president of the board. William A. Tobler, vice-president and general manager, was chosen president. Leslie R. Thompson will become vice-president and treasurer. The earnings of the company in the last 12 months, according to several of the directors, were greater than since the close of the war.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS END CLEVELAND MEETING

Cleveland, Aug. 23 (AP)—Having disposed of its two major problems with consideration of the situation in Mexico and the alleged circulation of a "spurious" oath, the Knights of Columbus brought their national convention to a close today.

The annual report of Supreme Knight Martin H. Carmody was unanimously adopted. Carmody had suggested that the United States government be asked to bring "moral pressure and influence to bear for a change of policy toward Catholics in Mexico."

Mrs. Hoover Finds 'Girl Chum' 40 Years Younger

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Aug. 23 (AP)—Iowa has welcomed and sped its favorite daughter, Lou Henry Hoover, with a parental blessing. Simply and maternally Waterloo took her to its heart once more as "very dear little girl" grown up.

More elaborately and officially, Cedar Rapids honored her today, as the Republican candidate for First Lady of the Land.

"It's just splendid to find you haven't been forgotten," she said, after protesting that she simply didn't know how to speak, and adding, "In my case, at least, woman's place is most decidedly in the home."

"I have had such a very happy afternoon," she continued. "To use a word of the little girls of today, it has been a much more 'thrilling' experience than I could imagine, to come back and find all the women I knew. It was indeed a pleasure to find one woman who actually looked younger than when I saw her last, 40 years ago."

This reference was to one who once lived with her two sisters on the other side of Fifth st. from their playmate, Lou Henry.

SMITH CITES PROHIBITION'S FAILURE IN PLEA FOR CHANGE

WANTS EACH STATE TO FIX ITS OWN 'DRY' LAWS

After Labor Day the Governor will discuss all of the issues which he outlined in his acceptance speech, but always, his friends predict, he will emphasize that, as President, he would rigidly enforce the prohibition law so long as it remains the law of the land, and that he is unalterably opposed to the return of the saloon, but feels it would be his solemn duty to urge an amendment to the prohibition amendment and liberalization of the Volstead law.

APPROVED BY TEXAN

Announcement today by Jesse H. Jones, Democratic leader of Texas, that Governor Smith's stand on prohibition "should not be offensive to any fair-minded prohibitionist," was cheerful news for the nominee. The Governor is said to feel that when his stand on the wet-dry question is really understood other advocates of prohibition will feel the same way.

The Governor was keenly disappointed when the notification ceremony had to be shifted from the Capitol steps to the Assembly chamber because of rain. Less than 2000 persons saw the Governor when he formally launched his campaign for the White House, but 70,000,000 could have listened in on the radio.

A crowd of 20,000 persons, unable to gain admission to the Capitol, stood in the rain in Capitol Park and listened to the presidential candidate by means of amplifiers.

In characteristic Smith fashion he handlede every national issue without mincing words.

He devoted more of his speech to prohibition than to any other one subject with the possible exception of agriculture.

Declaring that he is a believer in temperance, but that temperance has not been achieved under the present system, the Governor said:

"The mothers and fathers of young men and young women throughout this land know the anxiety and worry which has been brought to them by their children's use of liquor in a way which was unknown before prohibition.

"I believe in reverance for law. Today disregard of the prohibition laws is insidiously sapping respect for all law. I raise, therefore, what I profoundly believe to be a great moral issue involving the righteousness of our national conduct and the protection of our children's morals."

VETOED BY WILSON

The Governor said that remedy of the prohibition question is the "fearless application of Jeffersonian principles."

"Jefferson and his followers foresaw the complex activities of this great widespread country," Smith said. "They knew that in rural, sparsely settled districts people would develop different desires and customs from those in densely populated sections and that if we were to be a nation united on truly national matters, there had to be a differentiation in local laws to allow for local habits.

"It was for this reason that the Democratic platform in 1884 announced 'We oppose sumptuary laws which vex the citizens and interfere with individual liberty,' and it was for that reason that Woodrow Wilson vetoed the Volstead act.

"In accordance with this Democratic principle some immediate relief would come from an amendment to the Volstead law giving a scientific definition of the alcoholic content of an intoxicating beverage. The present definition is admittedly inaccurate and unscientific. Each state would then be allowed to fix its own standard of alcoholic content, subject always to the proviso that standard could not exceed the maximum fixed by Congress."

LET THE PEOPLE RULE

In announcing that he favored a change in the prohibition amendment, Smith said:

"I believe moreover, that there should be submitted to the people the question of some change in the provisions of the 18th Amendment. Certainly, no one foresaw when the amendment was ratified the conditions which exist today of bootlegging, corruption and open violation of the law in all parts of the country.

"The people themselves should after this eight years of trial be permitted to say whether existing conditions should be rectified.

"I personally believe in an amendment to the 18th amendment which would give to each individual state itself only after approval by a referendum popular vote of its people the right wholly within its borders to import, manufacture or cause to be manufactured and sell alcoholic beverages, the sale to be made only by the State itself and not for consumption in any public place.

> ## Smith Urges Respect for Small Nations
> THE Monroe Doctrine must be maintained, but not as a pretext for meddling with the purely local concerns of countries which, even though they be small, are sovereign and entitled to demand and receive respect for their sovereignty.
> I believe the American people desire to assume their full share of responsibility for administration of a world of which they are a part, without political alliance with any foreign nation. I pledge myself to a resumption of a real endeavor to make outlawry of war effective by removing its causes and to substitute the methods of conciliation, conference, arbitration and judicial determination.—*From Governor Smith's speech accepting Democratic nomination for President.

AGAINST SALOON

"We may well learn from the experience of other nations. Our Canadian neighbors have gone far in this manner to solve this problem by the method of sale made by the state itself and not by private individuals."

The Governor said there was no question of the return of the saloon in his suggestion that the 18th amendment be changed and that the Volstead law be modified.

"When I stated," he said, "that the saloon 'is and ought to be a defunct institution in this country' I meant it. I mean it today. I will never advocate nor approve any law which directly or indirectly permits the return of the saloon."

He said his suggestion, however, would preserve for the dry states the benefit of a national law that would continue to make interstate shipment of intoxicating beverages a crime, and that it also would preserve for such states prohibition within their own borders.

"It would permit," he added, "to citizens of other states a carefully limited and controlled method of effectuating the popular will wholly within the borders of those states without the old evil of the saloon."

The Governor said he believed his plan would "re-establish respect for law and terminate the agitation which has injected discord into the ranks of the great political parties which should be standing for the accomplishment of fundamental programs for the nation."

"I may fairly say," he concluded in dealing with prohibition, "to those who disagree with me that the solution I offer is based upon the historic policy of the Democratic party, to assure each state its complete right of local self-government. I believe it is a solution which would today be offered by Jefferson, or Jackson or Cleveland or Wilson, if those great leaders were with us."

FAVORS FARM AID

The Governor frankly made a flat bid for the votes of the Republican farmers. He virtually endorsed the principle of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill which was vetoed by President Coolidge, and while he did not mention the equalization fee, he did say he favored the control of surplus crops and the distribution of the cost over the unit benefited.

"Co-operative, co-ordinated marketing and warehouseing of surplus farm products is essential just as co-ordinated, co-operated control of the flow of capital was found necessary to the regulation of our country's finances," he said.

After describing the farm problem as "complex," the Governor added:

"Any plan devised must also be co-ordinated with the other phases of our business institutions. Our platform declares for the development of co-operative marketing and an earnest endeavor to solve the problem of the cost of dealing with crop surpluses over the marketed unit of the crop whose producers are benefited by such assistance.

"Only the mechanics remain to be devised. I propose to substitute action for inaction and friendliness for hostility."

FOR EXPERTS' VIEW

In the event of his election he said he would immediately call into conference farm experts and economists to work out a concrete farm relief plan.

"There are varying plans for the attainment of the end which is to be accomplished," he added. "Such plans should be subjected at once to searching, able and fair-minded analysis, because the interest of all require that the solution be economically sound."

Smith frankly told the farmers that he would support any farm relief plan formulated by the committee and that he would "support the activities of this body until a satisfactory law is placed upon the statute books."

Declaring that government should be constructive and not destructive; progressive, not reactionary, the Governor added:

"I am entirely unwilling to accept the old order of things as the best unless and until I become convinced that it cannot be made better."

He charged that the Republican party today is controlled by a reactionary element which, he said, seeks to vindicate the theory of benevolent oligarchy.

"I have fought this spirit in my own State," he said. "I have had to fight it and to beat it in order to place upon the statute books every one of the progressive, humane laws for whose enactment I assumed responsibility in my legislative and executive career. I shall know how to fight it in the nation."

CHARGES G. O. P. GUILT

The Governor sounded a warning to the "forces of corruption and favoritism," saying that Democratic victory would mean that those forces would be relegated to the rear and that the front seats will be occupied by the friends of equal opportunity.

He charged that the Republican party today stands responsible for the widespread dishonesty that has honeycombed its administration.

"During the last presidential campaign," he added, "the Republican managers were partially successful in leading the American people to believe that these sins should be charged against the individual rather than the party. The question of personal guilt has now been thoroughly disposed of and in its place, challenging the wisdom of good judgment of the American people, is the unquestioned evidence of party guilt."

The nominee characterized Republican claims of prosperity as a "myth."

"When four million men, desirous to work and support their families, are unable to secure employment there is very little in the picture of prosperity to attract them and the millions dependent upon them," he asserted.

The Governor quoted figures for 1926, to show that 40 per cent of the 430,000 corporations in the country lost money during that year. After declaring that there are some industries wholly prostrate and that there is widespread difficulty and discontent among business men, the Governor added:

"Prosperity to the extent that we have it is unduly concentrated and has not equitably touched the lives of the farmer, the wage earner and the individual business man. The claims of governmental economy is as baseless as the claims that general business prosperity exist and that it can exist only under Republican administration."

As exclusively predicted by International News Service the Governor told the business of the country that he did not intend to tinker with the tariff.

"The Democratic Party does not and under my leadership will not advocate any sudden or drastic revolution in our economic system which would cause business upheaval and popular distress," the Governor declared.

WANTS THE FACTS

He said the Democratic Party stands squarely for the maintenance of legitimate business and a high standard of wages for American labor.

"Both," he added, "can be maintained and at the same time the tariff can be taken out of the realm of politics and treated on a strictly business basis."

> ## As Hoover Got It, Smith's Talk Was Lot of Static
> Cedar Rapids, Ia., Aug. 23—Herbert Hoover heard the acceptance speech of his Democratic rival over the radio at "Brucemore," the estate of Mrs. George B. Douglas.
> A storm in eastern Iowa created so much static that the reception was very poor and Hoover missed parts of the speech.
> The action of Smith in proposing a change in the prohibition amendment, to permit state sale of intoxicating beverages, raised prohibition to a major issue, in the opinion of Hoover's advisers. The Hoover camp was prepared to fight out the campaign on this issue, even though Hoover personally was opposed to making it a major issue.

He quoted Professor William Star Myers of Princeton University as picturing the Republican tariff bill as "one of the most ill drawn pieces of legislation in recent political history." He promised to restore to its proper sphere the fact-finding commission created by the late President Wilson for the purpose of investigating and advising the President and Congress about the tariff.

"I shall restore this commission," the Governor said, "to the high level upon which President Wilson placed it, in order that, properly manned, it may produce the facts that will enable us to ascertain how we may increase the purchasing power of everybody's income or wages by the adjustment of those schedules which are now the result of log-rolling and which upon their face are extortionate and unnecessary."

HIS TARIFF VIEWS

In concluding his discussion of the tariff, the Governor told the voters of the nation:

"Pay no attention to the Republican propaganda and accept my assurance as the leader of our party that Democratic tariff legislation will be honest. It will play no favorites. It will do justice to every element in the nation."

Denouncing the Republican party for having failed to carry out a promise it made in 1921 to reorganize the machinery of the federal government, Smith said that if elected he would immediately see to it that all unnecessary and overlapping agencies were abolished or consolidated.

"After seven years of Republican control, the structure of government is worse than it was in 1921," he asserted. "It is fully as bad as the system which existed in New York State before we secured by constitutional amendment the legislation which consolidated more than 100 offices, commissions and boards into 18 co-ordinated departments, each responsible to the Governor.

"In contrast with this the Republican party in control at Washington when faced with the alternative of loss of patronage for the faithful, or of more efficient and economical management of the government, permitted the old order to continue for the benefit of the patronage seekers.

HITS HIGH COSTS

He declared there was no proof of an economical administration at Washington by the Republicans. He pointed out that apropriations for independent bureaus and offices not responsible to any cabinet officer increased from $163,000,000 in 1921 to $556,000,000 in 1928.

Apropriation bills signed by President Coolidge for the last year, the Governor said, are half a billion dollars more than they were for the first year of his administration.

He also pointed out that the actual expenditures for governmental activities during the fiscal year ending in 1928 were $346,000,000 more than in President Coolidge's first year.

"If the defenders of the administration answer that taxes have been reduced, they find themselves in a similar dilemma," Smith continued.

"The total taxes collected are $21,000,000 more than in the first year of the Coolidge administration.

"While tax rates have been re-

How Schoolteacher Gained 18 Pounds and New Energy

"I am a public school instructor," writes Mr. Linus L. Clark, "and from my study I was convinced that Ironized Yeast was exactly what I needed to put me in shape. I took only two bottles and gained 18 lbs. More than that, Ironized Yeast brought more energy, greater endurance and an improved complexion."

You can believe letters like this. Thousands who were doubtful at first write they gained 5 to 20 pounds often in 3 weeks. "Skinny" limbs changed to graceful roundness. Skin clears. Tired feeling vanishes.

Only when Yeast is Ironized is it more effective—for Iron is needed to bring out the weight-building and strengthening values of Yeast. Pleasant tablets in a handy bottle. Safe for everybody. Never cause gas or bloating, no harmful drugs.

Go to any druggist today and get a full size treatment of Ironized Yeast. If after this generous trial you are not delighted, money back. If inconvenient to buy from druggist, send $1.00 to Ironized Yeast Co., Atlanta, Ga. Desk 327-BY.

duced and some war-time taxes abandoned, the government actually took from the people in income taxes $383,000,000 more during the last fiscal year than during the first year of the Coolidge administration."

FOR ECONOMIES

In summing up his plan for a reorganization of the federal government's machinery, Smith said:

"If the people commission me to do it, I shall with the aid of the Congress effect a real reorganization and consolidation of governmental activities upon a business basis, and institute the real economy which comes from prudent expenditure.

"I shall aid programs for the relief of unemployment, recognizing its deep, human and social significance and shall strive to accomplish a national well being resting upon the prosperity of the individual men and women who constitute the nation."

Regarding the foreign policy the Governor said the country must rise above party politics and act as a united nation. He stressed the necessity for the restoration of cordial relations with Latin America and condemned the Republican administration at Washington for sending troops into Nicaragua because of an election dispute between two factions in that country, without the consent of Congress.

"To no declaration of our platform," Smith said, "do I more heartily commit myself than the one for the abolition of the practice of the President of entering into agreements for the settlement of internal disputes in Latin American countries, unless the agreements have been consented to by the Senate as provided in the Constitution of the United States."

He said the same practice should be followed with respect to Mexico.

ON WORLD PEACE

The Governor declared that the Monroe Doctrine must be maintained, but not, he added, as a pretext for meddling with the purely local concerns of countries.

He charged the Republican party had signally failed in its effort to outlaw war.

"I am neither militarist nor jingo," he added. "I believe that the people of this country wish to live in peace and amity with the world. Freedom from entangling alliances is a fixed American policy. It does not mean, however, that great nations should not behave to one another with the same decent friendliness and fair play that self-respecting men and women show to each other."

Referring to the treaty of 1921 for the limitation of armaments the Governor charged that for seven years the Republican party has followed it with nothing effective.

He pointed out that no limitation has been placed upon land armaments, submarines and poisonous gases.

"I believe," he said, "the American people desire to assume their fair share of responsibility for the administration of a world of which they are a part, without political alliance with any foreign nation. I pledge myself to a resumption of a real endeavor to make the outlawry of war effective by removing its causes and to substitute the methods of conciliation, conference, arbitration and judicial determination."

HITS POWER GRAB

The Governor said he would encourage the construction of modern highways and the development of inland water routes.

Because of the Mississippi flood of last year the Governor said the Nation should lose no time in setting up a national policy of flood control. He declared that forethought and leadership would have done much to prevent the Mississippi calamity.

"An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of first aid and relief," he said.

Asserting that wide possibilities for public good are latent in what remains of the country's natural resources, the Governor pledged himself to a progressive liberal conservation policy.

The Governor denounced as dishonest and unpatriotic the propaganda resorted to by certain utility corporations to obtain control of the country's waterpower resources.

"These sources of water power must remain forever under public ownership and control," the Governor declared. "I shall carry into federal administration the same policy which I have maintained against heavy odds in my own State. Under no circumstances should private monopoly be permitted to capitalize for rate-making purposes water power sites that are the property of the people themselves."

DAM AND SHOALS

He expressed the belief that electrical energy which could be generated at Boulder Dam is the common heritage of all the states through which the Colorado river flows. He suggested the creation of a Colorado River Authority, composed of representatives from all the states concerned, and then have the development made by such an agency.

The governor said he would favor a method of operation for Muscle Shoals "which will reclaim for the government some fair revenue from the enormous expenditure already made for its development and which is now a complete waste."

He made a direct bid for the labor vote by declaring for an amendment to the present law which would prevent the issuance of court injunctions in labor disputes.

"Dissatisfaction and social unrest have grown from these abuses and undoubtedly legislation must be framed to meet just causes for complaint in regard for the unwarranted issuance of injunctions," the governor said. "I shall continue my sympathetic interest in the advancement of progressive legislation for the protection and advancement of working men and women," he added.

AID FOR WAR VETS

The Governor told war veterans in so many words that if he is elected President he will cut away the red tape and that when a veteran in distress calls for help he will get it and get it promptly.

While asserting that he stands on the Democratic platform which declares that the laws which limit immigration must be preserved, the Governor said he was heartily in favor of removing the harsh provisions which separate families.

In concluding his speech, the Governor stressed the point that he does not owe his nomination to any one man or set of men and that it was not brought about by any promises given or implied by him.

"While this is a government of laws and not of men, laws do not execute themselves," the Governor said in conclusion. "We must have people of character and outstanding ability to serve the nation.

"To me one of the greatest elements of satisfaction in my nomination is the fact that I owe it to no man or set of men. I can with complete honesty make the statement that my nomination was brought about by no promise given or implied by me or anyone in my behalf.

MAKING APPOINTMENTS

"I will not be influenced in appointments by the question of a person's wet or dry attitude, by whether he is rich or poor, whether he comes from the North, South, East or West, or by what church he attends in the worship of God.

"The sole standard of my appointments will be the same as they have been in my governorship—integrity of the man or woman and his or her ability to give me the greatest possible aid in devoted service to the people.

"Victory, simply for the sake of achieving it, is empty. I am entirely satisfied of our success in November, because I am sure that we are right and therefore sure that our victory means progress for the nation.

"I am convinced of the wisdom of our platform. I pledge a complete devotion to the welfare of our country and pure people. I place that welfare above every other consideration and I am satisfied that our party is in a position to promote it.

"To that end I here and now declare to my fellow countrymen from one end of the United States to the other, that I will dedicate myself with all the power and energy that I possess to the service of our great Republic."

How Smith Would End Wet-Dry Problem

GOVERNOR SMITH came out in his acceptance speech flat-footed for a change in the 18th Amendment to legalize the sale by state agencies of alcoholic beverages, if approved by popular referendum. He called attention to the Canadian system.

He promised, if elected, to live up to his oath of office "to the last degree" in enforcement of the prohibition amendment and all laws enacted under it, and to do his utmost to "ruthlessly stamp out" what he described as "corruption in enforcement." He asserted he would guard against return of the saloon.

Serving notice that as President he would recommend to Congress whatever changes he deemed "necessary and expedient," he said that "some immediate relief would come from an amendment to the Volstead law giving a scientific definition of the alcoholic content of an intoxicating beverage."

"The present definition is admittedly inaccurate and unscientific," he declared. "Each State would then be allowed to fix its own standard of alcoholic content, subject always to the provision that the standard could not exceed the maximum fixed by the Congress."

"I personally believe in an amendment in the 18th Amendment which would give to each individual state itself only after approval by a referendum popular vote of its people the right wholly within its borders to import, manufacture or cause to be manufactured and sell alcoholic beverages, the sale to be made only by the state itself and not for consumption in any public place."

The nominee held this was in conformity with Jeffersonian principles of state rights and affirmed he was for temperance, which he contended has not been achieved under the present system.

LEADERS GIVE OPINIONS ON SMITH SPEECH

Washington, Aug. 23—Washington political leaders agreed today that Governor Al Smith's appeal for State control of liquor, as opposed to Herbert Hoover's stand on the dry side, has made prohibition perhaps the major issue of the election. While the candidates were also sharply divided on other problems, the politicians foresaw prohibition as the issue which would transcend party lines in numerous sections and arouse the most heated discussions.

Even dry leader, who are as far apart as the poles with Smith on his plan to solve the wet and dry question, declared the Governor had presented in his acceptance speech a frank and candid proposal on the subject.

SENATOR EDWARDS of New Jersey—"The Governor's exposition of true conditions under Volstead prohibition and his brutally frank statement of how he will attack crime and corruption of the 18th amendment is most refreshing in this era of Republican straddling, pussyfooting and hypocritical recrimination."

SENATOR GEORGE of Georgia—"A remarkable grasp of national and international problems. His assurance that he will ruthlessly stamp out corruption in the enforcement agencies carries conviction."

SENATOR CARAWAY of Arkansas—"The Governor's farm relief views will have the approval of every sincere friend of adequate farm legislation."

SENATOR FLETCHER of Florida—"This speech shows a grasp of national problems that is refreshing, stimulating and inspiring. I anticipate a wave of popular approval that will be irresistible."

REPRESENTATIVE BLOOM of New York—"A fearless exposition of real Democracy, devoid of sham and pretense."

JOSEPH DANIELS—"Even if Governor Smith's position (on prohibition) were tenable," said the former Naval Secretary, "the proposal of amending the Eighteenth Amendment is one which is now impossible of accomplishment."

REPRESENTATIVE CRISP of Georgia—"As a Congressman I would not vote to carry out the Smith's prohibition recommendations."

SENATOR ROBINSON of Indiana—"Governor Smith has lost the election with a single speech. He has put all his eggs in a basket of booze."

SENATOR CAPPER of Kansas—"Agriculture will be bitterly disappointed with Governor Smith's promise of another conference. Hoover, always a friend of the farmer, announced an affirmative plan of relief."

SENATOR BROOKHART of Iowa—"Ego is the outstanding style of Smith's address. I counted 108 'I's' in it and then thought of 'Lindbergh and We.' He spoke of keeping his oath as president, to enforce the Constitution, yet he took the same oath, as Governor of New York, and then repealed the enforcement act of his State. His proposals for farm relief might be described by the words 'ignorance' and 'camouflage.'"

SENATOR SACKETT of Kentucky—"The speech reveals that the Governor lacks thorough understanding of the country's problems."

SENATOR NYE of North Dakota—"Governor Smith passed the buck to Congress on farm relief and the St. Lawrence waterway. His prohibition utterance, calling for destruction of the Eighteenth Amendment, will never be supported by the American people."

REPRESENTATIVE WILSON of Louisiana—"The country should approve his determination to preserve this as a land of equal opportunity, in which small business may have an equal chance with big business."

SENATOR SMOOT (R.) of Utah—"He lays great stress on what he claims to be a fact, that the Republican party is a reactionary party. There is no truth in it. Governor Smith builds up a straw man, and then proceeds to demolish it. The Underwood tariff would have ruined the country if the World War had not occurred."

POSTMASTER-GENERAL NEW—"If the majority of the American electorate is wet and wants to entrust Tammany with the administration of the liquor laws, and favors facilitating foreign immigration Governor Smith has a chance to be elected, otherwise he has none."

SENATOR BORAH of Idaho—"The Underwood tariff which I understood the Governor to specifically indorse would ruin the livestock, dairy, poultry and kindred industries."

SENATOR FESS, keynoter at Kansas City—"The Governor's promise to enforce the Eighteenth Amendment in the light of his attitude, past and present, is not convincing to the American people."

JOHN J. RASKOB, chairman of the national committee—"A state document."

JESSE H. JONES of Houston, Tex. "Farm relief is the biggest issue in the campaign. The Governor's speech makes it so."

CHARLES M. HAY of Missouri—"I do not agree with the proposals to modify the prohibition policy, but respect him for his frankness".

Don't Fool Yourself about Your Old Piano EXCHANGE IT

No use side-stepping. That old piano that has been hanging about the house for so many years is probably just a plain ordinary nuisance now. Antiquated looking with all the "doo-dobs" and gim-cracks in decoration of a vanished age. Tin-panny in tone, annoying to the family and objected to by your neighbors.

Dusty, dirty, actually unhealthy because its probably been gathering microbes of every description for years and years.

The least you can do to treat the old piano with the same respect you'd treat a sofa cushion is to have it blown out and cleaned once every little while. Better still

We'll allow you liberally for it as part payment on a newer, finer, more modern, beautifully toned instrument. And if you like we will take your old upright, allow you liberally for it, then blow it out, clean and polish it, place on it a silvered plaque, inscribed with your name and present the piano to a worthy hospital or institution.

SOCIETY THRONGING TO ADIE-ALMY WEDDING TODAY, SAYS BETTY ALDEN

Reception at Home of Bride's Father Follows Church Ceremonial

MOTORS FROM BOSTON SPINNING ALONG SMOOTH ROADS to New Bedford today take wedding guests of importance to witness the nuptials of a bride remarkably handsome. Miss Mary Louise Almy, daughter of William Almy, today at noon relinquishes the Almy cognomen for that of Adie and so flouts superstition in not "changing the letter." A girl of radiant, dark-eyed beauty is Miss Almy, the sort not to be dimmed one whit by misty tulle and the yards of satin and lace brides are swathed in for the march altarward.

BRIDAL RITES SOLEMNLY COMPLETED, THERE IS A farther motor trip of a dozen miles or so out to Quansett Farm, the Almy summer home, setting superbly on its breeze-swept moors overlooking miles of shining sands and glinting white capped ocean. At Quansett proverbial Almy hospitality will be set forth, as wedding guests shower felicitations on the newlyweds and dance in their honor. Miss Almy moves with Boston's smartest, having Vincent Club and Junior League memberships. John Wright Adie, bridegroom, is a son of Mrs. Andrew Adie, brother of Mrs. Robert Almy and Mrs. George Porter Hunter, and successfully achieved a Harvard sheepskin in 1926.

GREAT ENTHUSIASM FOR AMATEUR DRAMATICS AND A special desire to see "Peter Ibbetson" brought Mrs. Daniel de Menocal and Mr. De Menocal from Newport to Gloucester, just at the height of the season when Newport swings into mid-August's swirl. Evidently the de Menocals arrived at Stillington after a hurried trip, appearing without the formality of changing into lavender and fine linen. Mrs. De Menocal is an arresting figure however attired, and so her wide hat and prints frock were as optically pleasing as other more elaborate evening costumes.

TRAILING KING HORSE
Society leaders have been doing the round of South Shore horse shows, as spectators without a care.

THE VERY PEAK OF THE season, so far as Wianno, Osterville, Hyannisport and that very smart section of Cape Cod sees it, is to be celebrated next week. The pretty Wianno Club where exclusiveness is the watchword and beauty of appointment the keynote, has a remarkably handsome new ballroom in which to celebrate the season's windup and an internationally known entertainer as chef d'oeuvre of the evening. Stewart Baird is to do his big annual recital at the Wianno Club the evening of August 31 and next evening comes a large dance, also in the ballroom's sumptuous setting.

ADDING SUMPTUOUS DECORATION to sumptuous interior so to make elaborate setting for these two occasions is the plan. The land of the clicking castanets and the graceful mantillas furnishes inspiration for a decorator who would create the Spanish atmosphere. Stewart Baird, of Boston, New York and the wide, wide world, is the specialty introduced from metropolitan centres as entertainer-in-chief of the evening. For five seasons Mr. Baird has thus been the bright particular star of the late summer, at Wianno. And Wianno flocks to hear him and applaud his offerings.

HE CALLS HIS THIS SEASON barytone-diseur presentation "Week-ending at Wianno," with a morning at the Beach Club, an afternoon at the Golf Club and an evening at the Wianno Club. Mrs. Felix Dupont of Oyster Harbors and Philadelphia, Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Armstrong of Pittsburgh and "Indian Knoll," at Osterville, Mrs. J. Frank Drake of Hyannisport and Pittsburgh, Mrs. Horace S. Frazer of Boston and Osterville, Mrs. Rene E. Paine of Boston and Wianno are some of the patronesses doing honor to Mr. Baird for his Wianno Club appearance.

THERE WILL BE A CRANING of necks when the Vanderbilts whirl into the show ring this afternoon and give the finishing touch to Newport's Horse Show. For no matter what four-footed bluebloods may prance about and what handsome hunters sail over the hurdles, vivid interest centers about present generation representatives of the multi-millionaire clan descended from the Gotham steamboat and railroad king. Mrs. Frederic Cameron Church, Jr. (Muriel Vanderbilt), is true to family tradition as owner and exhibitor of famous horses.

AND WILLIAM H. VANDERBILT moves on serenely, upholding family prestige in the show ring. On the box seat of the road coach Venture, William H. is today occupying the post filled so superbly by his well-known pater, the late Alfred Vanderbilt. And the coach is that selfsame bright and shining contraption Mr. Vanderbilt tooled so expertly from London to Brighton and so made coaching history a decade or two ago. Mrs. Church owns some spirited horses that shine in driving classes.

HITCHED TO A PHAETON and with Mrs. Church holding the reins, her ladies' harness pair, "Woodcliff Surprise" and "Dragon Fly," are sure to get a continuous hand. The Vanderbilt stallion is another star entry, and the trotting bred "Chipmunk" shines because of Church ownership. And when Mrs. Church holds the whip the picture is quite complete. Society is evidently keen for its horse show, even though the spectacle goes on this year for the first time in many, outside the famous Casino.

SHE FIGHTS LIKE 'WILDCAT' TO BALK HUGS

Testifying that she "went at him like a wildcat" to fight her way out of his store, Mrs. Alice L. Cauldwell of Philadelphia told a story in Malden court today that resulted in finding Terrence McSweeney, 66, Everett antique dealer, guilty.

McSweeney, who has two antique shops, lives in Glendale sq. and Mrs. Cauldwell is visiting her mother, who lives in the same apartment house as McSweeney. Although he emphatically denied her testimony, he was placed on probation for seven months.

"I went to his shop to get some antiques and he tried to hug and kiss me," said Mrs. Cauldwell. "He closed thedoor and stood with his back against it, and then he switched off the lights.

"I told him if he would open the door and let me out I would forget the incident, but instead he made advances to me. Then I went for him like a wildcat and got out."

CRESCENT GARDENS INSTALLS NEW ORGAN

The Crescent Gardens Theater, Revere, announces the grand premiere of its new Moller Marvel Organ tomorrow. Installation of this fine instrument has been completed, and patrons of the theater are destined to hear one of the finest organs in this vicinity. This is the first installation of a Moller de luxe model in this vicinity, and there seems to be no end to the various combinations and effects that can be executed on it.

At the console will be Ray Weber, formerly at the Fenway Theater, Boston, and New England's youngest featured organist.

The Crescent Gardens was recently added to the imposing list of theaters in the Interstate Theater Corp. circuit, of which Edwin Ansin is president, and E. Harold Stoneman, treasurer.

WOMAN LEAVES $500 TO OFFICER WHO SAVED HER

Worcester, Aug. 23 (AP)—The will of Mrs. Alfred Albertina G. Cochrane, who died Monday at St. Vincent Home, leaves $500 to Traffic Officer Joseph Jalbert for his attention and alertness in saving her on two occasions from injuries by street cars.

She left $2000 to the Church Extension Society of the United States and $1000 each to the Catholic Women's Club of Worcester, the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and Holy Cross College.

TRAFFIC OFFICER IS SECRETLY ARRAIGNED

Although police at first denied any knowledge of the case, Traffic Officer Herbert L. Sinclair of Cambridge was secretly arraigned in East Cambridge Court today, charged with a serious offense against a 13-year-old girl. The name of the girl is withheld by the Boston Evening American, out of deference to her age. Sinclair was held in $1000 bail.

MAN DIES OF BROKEN NECK; POLICE INVESTIGATE

His neck broken in some mysterious manner, William Smith, 70, of Chestnut st., Lynnfield, was found dead today on the farm of R. H. Thomas, where he was employed. Medical Examiner Charles Tucker, who examined the body, gave the cause of death as a broken neck, but could not say how it happened, and he called in the Lynnfield police to find out.

The New Colonial Gas all above the Borderland
GASOLINE
BORDERLAND
KEROSENE
Ordinary Gasoline contains more or less Kerosene—"Borderland"
AT the TOP!
MOTOR OIL

Note
IF gasoline and kerosene settled in layers, here's what you'd see if you put into a test-tube that part of crude oil from which gasoline is made.
Top—a layer of pure gasoline.
Bottom—a layer of kerosene.
Between — in the "borderland," a mixture that has some of the characteristics of both gasoline and kerosene, and is the real cause of "knocking," fouling, crank-case dilution, loss of flexibility, speed, and power.

JUST about the time that motorists began to think all gasolines were the same—along came NEW COLONIAL and went to the top of the quality field.

Long experience in operating our own refinery and our own chain of several hundred Colonial Filling Stations in New England and New York, convinced us that it is "borderland" which causes the fuel knocks and loss of power in ordinary gasoline. It took our refinery engineers several years to do it—but we finally succeeded in removing every trace of this "keroseney" mixture from NEW COLONIAL GASOLINE.

And though you get premium performance from NEW COLONIAL you pay no premium price. It sells at the same price as ordinary gasoline.

'Our Gang' Finishes Local Film

THE making of the Boston Evening American's "Our Gang" comedy film is only a memory but the memory will linger on for many years. And what a memory!

If there is any doubt in your mind on this point question any of the hundreds of New England children who participated in the making of the picture or the thousands of spectators who went to Norumbega Park to witness the spectacle.

Whole World Can Tune In on Mars' "Funeral"

Paris, Aug. 23 (INS)—Most of the world, including the United States, will be able to listen in on Monday to the ceremonies at the Quai d'Orsay in connection with the signing of the multilateral treaty for the renunciation of war.

The Cabinet, at a special meeting today, presided over by President Doumergue, approved arrangements for the treaty signing, including broadcasting the speeches of Foreign Minister Briand and Secretary of State Kellogg. The ceremony will start at 3 p. m. (10 p. m. eastern daylight saving time) and will be broadcast on a wave length receivable in America and throughout Europe.

The opening speech will be by M. Briand, and after Secretary Kellogg has responded, actual signing of the treaty will take place.

After all 15 nations have signed, it is expected steps will be taken for inviting other governments to adhere to the anti-war pact.

Frigidaire Corporation, the world's largest makers of electric refrigerators • •

PRESENT

FRIGIDAIRE

YOU DON'T HEAR IT START • • YOU DON'T HEAR IT STOP • • YOU DON'T HEAR IT RUN

For twelve years the pioneer in automatic refrigeration once again sets a new standard

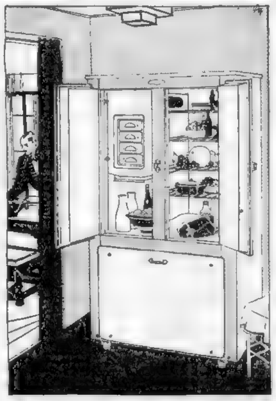
INCREDIBLY quiet operation, greater cabinet beauty and convenience . . . surplus refrigerating power built into a new and radically improved compressor . . . this is the New Frigidaire. Millions of dollars were spent to make possible the New Frigidaire. Not only the experience of refrigeration experts was called on but even that of automotive inventors, chemical and electrical engineers . . . authorities in many different fields.

Sound-proof rooms were constructed for tests. Sound recording instruments were used, more delicate than the human ear. And all that the New Frigidaire should be noiseless, powerful and economical. The result is an entirely new and radically improved compressor . . . a new development in automatic refrigeration. The New Frigidaire is incredibly quiet. You don't hear it start. You don't hear it stop. You don't hear it run.

The New Frigidaire has tremendous reserves of power in its simple mechanism. It meets every emergency with the same absolute reliability.

The New Frigidaire is the most beautiful refrigerator ever developed commercially. But more surprising even than its beauty, is the convenience of its details. You should see it for yourself . . . you should visualize it in your own kitchen . . . only then can you realize the advance which the New Frigidaire marks in convenient housekeeping.

The shelves of this cabinet are all at convenient height. Frigidaire engineers have concealed the compressor completely



There is a beautiful new Frigidaire planned and built for your exact needs. Come down and pick it out . . . on August twenty-third.

Big Special Demonstration opens Thursday, August 23rd

The New Frigidaire, the newest development in electric refrigeration, is now on our showroom floor. And we're giving a remarkable demonstration every day and every night this week.

We're showing what the New Frigidaire will do under actual household conditions. We're showing just why it runs so quietly and so efficiently. We're showing how it insures absolutely safe refrigeration.

Come in and see it for yourself. For your convenience, we are open each night this week and next week until ten o'clock.

Low prices and easy terms

The Frigidaire Corporation believes that every household in America should have automatic refrigeration . . . for health . . . for convenience . . . for economy. The New Frigidaire carries low prices and easy General Motors terms . . . prices and terms which make it possible for everyone to have the benefits of Frigidaire now. Come in this week and find out about them.

M'MILLAN SEES LITTLE HOPE OF SAVING FLIERS

By COM. DONALD B. MacMILLAN
Arctic Explorer

Nain, [illegible], Aug. 23 (by radio to the Associated Press)—A continued search for Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, Rockford, Ill., to [illegible] fliers, is being made by the cruiser Marion along the Labrador coast.

The only other ship now in the immediate vicinity is the Hudson Bay Company's Bay Kun. Others, however, are reported en route from various adjacent harbors and coast [illegible].

If the Sweden bound fliers are fortunate enough to be on and they may find Eskimos who are scattered along the entire coast catching cod fish. On the other hand, if Hassel and Cramer came down on water [illegible] is doubtful unless they have a rubber boat and a map of the location of Moravian station.

We of the Rawson-Field Museum expedition expect to return south in a few days with fair weather and probably will dock at Wiscasset, Me.

We have never heard the letter "R" from the Greater Rockford's radio, although we have been in frequent touch with Prof. W. H. Hobbs' station at Mt. Evans, Greenland, the base of the Greater Rockford's scheduled second stop.

(The letter "R" was the last signal heard from the fliers last Sunday morning and designated them as near Cape Chidley.)

ANTI-ALCOHOL CONGRESS OPENS WAR ON LIQUOR

Antwerp, Belgium, Aug. 23 (AP)—An [illegible] on alcohol has been launched by delegates of most of the world's leading nations, inaugurating the international congress against alcohol here. The opening speeches stressed the importance of the economic aspects of the alcohol problem in grape growing countries such as France, Germany, Spain and Italy. The Swedish deputy, Sandler, discussed the prominence of the alcohol trade in international commerce treaties. After a [illegible] session in which the American delegate, St. [illegible], participated, the congress resolved that intoxicated automobilists should be deprived permanently of permission to drive.

"CLUE" TO LOST FLIER IS FOUND IN BOTTLE NOTE

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 23 (INS)—A note which may have been written by Mildred Doran, one of those who perished in the Dole flight, was being scanned by authorities today at Aberdeen, Wash., according to word received here. It was found by two youths on the beach. The paper on which the message was scrawled was in a perfume bottle. It said:

"Gas gone. Water running low. Been floating on wingtips—four days. October 2, 1927."

The signature, with a number of letters obliterated, was thought to spell "Miss Mildred Doran."

RAIN SAVES CONEY ISLAND BOWERY IN $20,000 FIRE

New York, Aug. 23 (AP)—Fire early today destroyed four frame buildings in Coney Island and for a time threatened the entire Bowery or Midway section and Steeplechase Park. The hard rain that had been falling all night prevented a greater loss, firemen said. The blaze, fanned by a stiff wind, was checked at the Stillwell baths, where 200 persons were sleeping. The fire, starting in a Japanese rolling ball game concession, caused damage estimated at $20,000.

GAY 'BELLE OF BOHEMIA' SEEKS FIFTH HUBBY

Chicago, Aug. 23 (AP)—Belle Livingston, who was found [illegible] a huge sunflower plant [illegible] years ago in the back yard of John R. Graham, then the mayor of Emporia, Kan., is here today seeking her fifth husband. And she declares she will go to California or China to "get her man," if she can't find him here.

Belle was adopted by Mr. Graham and was educated in a convent at Oldenburg, Ind., until she ran away to become a musical comedy trouper. There she met her first husband, Richard Waring of Chicago. A divorce a year later and a settlement for $150,000 afforded her a trip to Europe where she coined the phrase "Spend it while you have it."

With her finances gone, she accepted the stipulations of a wager that she could go around the world with $25 as her stake. She won $[illegible],000 and Count Latassi, who became her husband. He died.

Then she wrote her autobiography, "The Belle of Bohemia," and subsequently met Edward Mohler, who was then a leading stockholder in the Nickel Plate Railroad. Edward Mohler, Jr., of Cleveland was born and he is now prominent in the affairs of that city, Mrs. Livingston said.

Belle and Mohler separated in 1912 and Col. Walter James Hutchins of Woolwich Arsenal, London, married her the following year. "I lived with the colonel 14 years," she told interviewers, "but when he wanted to settle down and I wanted to keep on living I told him he was discharged. He doesn't want to divorce me until I find a new husband," she added.

Her "qualifications" for a new husband are:

"He must be humor, cosmopolitan and understanding and he must have or make as much money as I do."

SLAYER OF 10 CHINESE HUNTED IN CALIFORNIA

Fairfield, Cal., Aug. 23 (AP)—Many residents of Solano and Napa counties were in a state of siege in their homes today while posses scoured fields, woods and roads for Loy Yeung, the Chinese who yesterday murdered 10 of his countrymen on a ranch near here. Yeung fled in an auto after running amuck with a hatchet and rifle. Police say Loy Yeung had a reputation as a killer and had boasted of taking three lives in a tong war. Officers could find no motive for the killing except that he might have become crazed by use of narcotics.

Concerning his proposed policy for the Davis Cup team, Tilden says: "I am inclined to believe that if the policy of the Davis Cup team was clearly set down that no member could write while a member of the team abroad it would relieve any [illegible]

Big Rhody Dog Show Carded for Saturday

Providence, R. Even Boston terriers, [illegible] the most numerous at all breed shows, are outdistanced.

With a total of more than 600 dogs entered and classified, [illegible] there will be an entry of better than 40 pekes. Bostons will be second with a total of about 30.

The show will be a five-point show for beagles, three for bulldogs, four for pointers, three for Sealyham terriers and three for English setters.

In the three sixes under the main event, the principals will be Johnny Hermon, Boston, vs. Freddie Neil, M. N. SPORTS

"Pooch" Donovan.
Wonderful Athlete.
And Great Trainer.

Pal of Haughton.
P. D. Gave Him Credit.
One of H. Immortals.

By NICK FLATLEY

POOCH DIED IN HARNESS, AS HE WISHED

POOCH DONOVAN has passed along, but his memory always will be honored in Harvard sport. For in the great, long list of Crimson heroes no one man ever was more respected, beloved and idolized.

Pooch was only a paid employe over across the Charles, but he sat in the councils with the bosses, and what he had to say about anything athletic was taken as gospel up to the time the years began to creep up on him.

Nick Flatley

Pooch Donovan was one of those dynamic sport lovers who had the natural urge. He had to play the game, even though he knew that it was killing him. We saw him last spring out in Natick when the Marathoners went by. He had been ordered by his doctors to keep away from that race.

But there he was on the side of the road, shouting advice and encouragement to the three runners he had picked to win—De Mar, Henigan and Joie Ray. It was a tipoff on his skill and knowledge when the three marched in to take the prizes.

Then Pooch went to the Olympics. He had been advised to stay home and rest the heart that was failing. But he remarked before he sailed:

"The old clock must stop some time. Why should I sit around and wait? I'd rather get the last message when I'm out somewhere having a real thrill."

That was the typical Pooch. He went to the Olympics, and so died in harness, as he wanted to.

COACH DONOVAN ORIGINATED THE SAYING, "A TEAM THAT WON'T BE LICKED CAN'T BE LICKED," ALTHOUGH OTHERS HAVE CAPITALIZED THE SAME.

THE Stadium will not seem the same, now that the gray haired, [illegible] eyed old Pooch is gone.

WORLD'S GREATEST ATHLETIC GROUP

POOCH DONOVAN was the leader in an athletic group, that won and deserved more fame than any other collection of athletes the world ever has known. Way, way back in the old days in Natick, the boys used to sprint nights, after they came from work in the factories. They used to make little side bets.

They discovered they could run. So they started to march around to the picnics. Those were before the amateur days. The winners used to get five or ten bucks, and side betting on the local prides was the big kick of the game.

That was the greatest generation sport has known, for sheer ability. The boys knew the racket, because they had to. Pooch Donovan brought along his brother, "Piper," the fastest sprinter of all time. Mike Murphy, Keene Fitzpatrick and Johnny Mack were in the same gang. Jack Moakley came along as they were passing their heydey.

Pooch went to Harvard, eventually, Johnny Mack to Yale, after the great Mike Murphy had gone to Pennsylvania. Fitzpatrick took charge of athletic affairs at Princeton, and Moakley won great glory by Cayuga's silver waters, at Cornell.

No great city or country ever turned out a similar gang.

THE SHADE OF P. D. HAUGHTON WILL BE WAITING TO GREET THE DONOVAN SPIRIT. POOCH WAS FIFTY PER CENT OF THE HAUGHTON SYSTEM, AND THE GREATEST OF COACHES ALWAYS INSISTED ON GIVING HIM CREDIT.

INSPIRATION DEVELOPED SECOND GENERATION

MURPHY, Mack, Moakley and Donovan naturally were idols with the kids in Natick. And so they inspired another generation. The boys went to Harvard because Pooch was there. First, Eddie Mahan, then Billy Murray and then Eddie Casey. The trio wrote their fame in golden letters on the scroll of Crimson glory.

Brickley, Hardwick, Bradlee and the rest were given their physical education by Donovan. They learned that a stout heart is the greatest asset a powerful body knows. Tears will fill the eyes of any of those great heroes of the past any time you mention Pooch now.

The old boy played the game to the limit all the way through. Back when he was a kid he gathered a great kick beating a horse in a race every night with the Barnum circus. He managed the Natick money chasers as they toured the fairs of the country.

He was a runner on the old fire team that established the world's muster record. He went to Worcester Academy as a coach, and there discovered and developed Arthur Duffey. And that young man had nary a peer, unless perhaps it was Pooch's own brother, Piper.

Either one could have waltzed away from the Williamses, the Wyckoffs or the Paddocks. After that Harvard called Pooch, and he lived through the glorious sport era. And he will be remembered just as long as will be the great athletes of that stretch. Which will be more or less forever.

RAY BARBUTI HELLO, FOLKS! JOHN DALEY

Amid the din of sirens and whistles the returning Olympic athletes were greeted in New York by Mayor Walker. Barbuti won the 400 meters and Miss Wiley was second in the high jump for women. Johnny Daley of Waltham hasn't the victorious smile, but seems to be still brooding over the poor decisions of the boxing judges at Amsterdam. The other photo shows a group of the women's team nattily attired in swanky white uniforms as they gave a welcome to the Gateway of America. All in all the trip was a great success. And if it hadn't been for cruel custom officials in New York harbor, who confiscated a lot of rare old Holland gin, it might have been even greater.

Red Sox Stuck in Cellar for 1928

With all hopes of leading the team out of the cellar this season gone, Manager Bill Carrigan is expected to start experimenting with his Red Sox this afternoon and continue until the curtain falls.

Three straight defeats at the hands of the Tigers have convinced the Fenway pilot that his present lineup will not do, and that he must do the necessary constructive fooling around with his athletes in order to get them in line for the next campaign.

Most managers would not bother at this stage of a season to plan for the next campaign, but Lew [illegible] William will be working harder than ever for the balance of the season to pick the young men whom he will expect to carry the Sox up in the thick of the fight next summer.

The Red Sox are now too far back of the seventh place Senators to hope to catch them. However, they can use the rest of this season to advantage in trying out the many [illegible] of the club who have never had a chance to [illegible] their [illegible] worth.

HANOVER LEADER RESIGNS, HAMMEN TAKES PLACE

Hanover, Pa., Aug. 22—Jess Altenberg resigned as manager of the Hanover Raiders and his place was taken by George Hammen.

Internal trouble was known to exist in the Hanover ranks, but the resignation of Altenberg was not expected.

The "second guessers" have been on the Raider manager for some time.

SCHANG'S WIFE SEEKS DIVORCE

Norristown, Pa., Aug. 23 (AP)—Walter H. (Wally) Schang, catcher for the St. Louis American League baseball team, was named defendant today in a suit for divorce filed by Mrs. [illegible] Aubrey Schang.

Mrs. Schang, who lives in Abington near here, charges her husband with "cruel and barbarous treatment."

The Schangs were married in Philadelphia in October, 1915, when "Wally" was star catcher for the Athletics. His wife was a daughter of William Vincent Aubrey of Philadelphia.

Mrs. Schang is 32 and her husband is a few years older. In his 15 years of American League baseball experience he has played on six clubs. He broke into the majors with the Athletics in 1913, coming from the Buffalo Internationals. In 1917 he was traded to the Boston Red Sox and in 1925 was acquired by the New York Yankees.

In 1926 he was traded by New York to the St. Louis Browns for Pitcher Marberry.

"There is not any sport that has so much [illegible] boxing game. I have been in Boston with Big Boy [illegible] getting him ready for Sharkey. Now the match is off.

"We will smoke Sharkey out of his hiding place and [illegible] him fight Big Boy or hang up his gloves. I guess [illegible] tipped Sharkey that Peterson is ring poison.

"You know Mike Collins didn't come all the way to [illegible] the good of his health. I figured Big Boy had a [illegible] off Sharkey and become a national boxing [illegible].

"I sacrificed my other business interests to [illegible] but that's all in the [illegible] [illegible] Mrs. Collins [illegible] and [illegible] I put my [illegible].

DEMONSTRATORS OF WASHING MACHINES SAY

"Clothes wash whiter

—with this safe granulated soap"

THEY know! They must know how to get the whitest, cleanest wash possible. Quickly. Safely. The very sale of their washing machines depends upon it.

That's why demonstrators of washing machines everywhere—32,000 of them!—use Rinso, the granulated soap. No time to stop for boiling. No time to bother with bar soaps and powders.

They know that Rinso alone brings clothes from the washer gleaming and snowy!

You never saw such suds!

Rinso suds are thick, creamy and lasting. Soapy suds that loosen the dirt and stains.

Watch clothes come from the washer bright and sparkling! Even cuffs, hems and edges come spotless with little or no rubbing.

No wonder demonstrators use Rinso! No wonder the makers of 34 leading washers urge women to use this granulated soap for safety and for a whiter wash.

Get the BIG package of Rinso now. It's all you need in washer or tub. You get your full money's worth when you buy this granulated soap—it's so compact. For best results, follow the easy directions.

For tub washing, too

For those who do the wash by hand, Rinso is a marvelous work-saver. Soaks clothes whiter than they can be scrubbed. Saves clothes—saves hands.

The makers of these 34 leading washing machines say, "Use Rinso"

[illegible] Pat for so many months and began to throw [illegible] her two suit cases and her dressing bag.

She ran down to the janitor's [illegible] in the basement and telephoned for a cab.

[illegible]

"This is Miss France, Mr. Lexington's daughter," answered Lily [illegible] "I shall be home in a very few minutes. See that my room is opened, please, and things put in order for me."

There was a pause. "I ain't never seen [illegible] Miss France," the voice [illegible] doubtfully then.

[illegible] "How everything [illegible] go wrong at times!" [illegible]

And she hung up the receiver [illegible]

Pat was still hidden behind the paper when she went back to the flat.

He did not stir when she passed him, carrying her heavy bags. He did not look at her. He did not speak. If he knew she was there, in the room with him, he gave no sign of it.

Outside in the quiet street sounded the squawk of a taxicab horn and the screaming of brakes. The doorbell rang.

Lily went down the stairs and sent the man up for her luggage. She sat in the cab while he went upstairs for them, wondering if, even then, Pat would not come down and try to take her back upstairs with him.

"I wish he would," she said to herself. "I'd enjoy refusing him now!"

But he did not give her that pleasure.

Only Whitex meets Paris' Call for White

....if it weren't for Whitex, but few women could follow the newest decree of Paris which gives white a more prominent place than ever in the summer wardrobe.

....for only Whitex can restore the original whiteness to white silks and woolens that have yellowed from sun and laundering. And only Whitex will keep them white! Indeed, once a woman has discovered Whitex for her smart silk and woolen dresses, sportswear, "undies", stockings, etc., she discards ordinary bluing forever. She uses Whitex, too, on all her fine white things—table and household linens and cottons—babies' clothes—men's shirts and collars, as well.

....there is nothing like Whitex on the market. And there is nothing that could be easier to use—just add it to the rinsing water! Now you can wear all the white that you wish—and you can always be sure that it will be kept white with Whitex. Have a package of Whitex always on hand!

Amazing Beauty Test

To prove that this new kind of face powder is better for your skin than any other, just make this simple test. Use any face powder on your entire face except on your chin at least three times a day. Put only La-May Face Powder on your chin. Your chin will quickly be freed of any excess oil, enlarged pores or eruptions, almost as if by magic. The rest of your face will not improve in beauty. Then powder all your face with La-May. The more often the quicker the result. You will be delighted—amazed at the new beauty of your skin. And it goes on smoother, looks better and stays on longer than any other. It does not show like make-up, cake on or flake the skin.

All dealers have La-May in white, flesh, brunette and tan at fifty cents and one dollar. The brunette shade gives an unusually lovely effect.

CHILD'S SCHOOL WORK

By CONSTANCE CAMERON

THE bits of handwork which children happily carry home to exhibit, look meaningless to many parents. Only a few bits of paper pasted together, you say. Why save it? True, the object itself is probably quite useless, but into its making, probably was woven a thought and plan for the constructive growth of your child, and just as often as you discard these things, just that often are you weakening your child's desire to proceed with his work.

Also, the teacher who engineered the child's manipulation of shears, paste-brush and paper to get the final result which you are asked to admire, studied for many years to discover how to arouse the interest and latent powers of her small charges. She is aiming at some definite result, some character building exercise, or some one step toward your child's knowledge of how to control muscle and brain, when she shows him how to proceed to make the things he brings to you each day.

There is a little boy living in an apartment where I go sometimes, and to the friend whom I visit there he has given the name of "The Lady Across the Hall." Each day at about ten minutes of four he stumbles breathlessly up the back stairs, raps stealthily on the kitchen door, and if The Lady Across the Hall is in he is always admitted. Proudly he shoves the work he has made at kindergarten into her friendly hands and she examines it, talks it over with him, asks him to explain what it is all about, and usually ends by asking him if he would like to make some more like it.

At Christmas time he tore in from his last day at school before the holidays and handed my friend a package neatly wrapped in tissue paper and red ribbon, saying that it was his Christmas gift to her. She opened it and exclaimed over the neat work he had done, but, drawing him to her side, she said: "Honey you'd better give this to your mother, don't you thinks so? You made this all yourself and she should have it." The small boy shook his head emphatically. "No, sir! Everything I take home my mother throws away. You keep 'em in a box, so I want it to be yours."

Pimples Itched and Burned. Cuticura Heals.

"My face and hands were covered with pimples. The pimples festered and scaled over and caused disfigurement. They itched and burned and when I scratched them they formed eruptions. I could not do my work on account of them, and could hardly get any sleep.

"I tried all kinds of remedies but they did me no good. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. After using it I purchased more, and in about three weeks I was completely healed." (Signed) Harold Cutter, 1 Vaughan Ave., Dorchester, Mass., April 16, 1928.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND

THERE are two kinds of summer loves—those that man remembers, and those that he merely recalls.

* * *

The first kiss in a summer romance is only an episode in a man's life—the last kiss is often an epitaph in a woman's.

—A summer vacation is like matrimony, full of trials, discomforts and disappointments—but you are always a hundred per cent better for it.

A man used to have to invent an excuse for kissing a girl; now it takes all his tact and ingenuity to invent an excuse for NOT kissing her.

* * *

Summer love is like fishing: there is far more thrill in the nibble at the bait than in landing the catch.

A man never realizes that he has reached middle age until he discovers that he can't feel the same keen old thrill at the prospect of meeting a new and attractive girl.

The altruistic soul who attempts to make a love-match between two charming people succeeds merely in making a couple of enemies.

Married people should get away from each other whenever they feel inclined, says Bernard Shaw. Good philosophy! But, alas, when one inclines that way, the other so often DEclines!

* * *

When a woman gets good and angry, she goes around and smashes up the dishes or the furniture; a man goes out and smashes a few of the Commandments.

Almost as many people secretly believe that they have "IT" as those who fancy they have genius—and almost as few really possess that rare and desirable quality—

Many a marriage is the triumph of a woman's deceit over a man's conceit.

Margaret fell out of bed in the night. Her mother picked her up, putting her back in the bed without apparently awaking her. Next morning her mother asked if she knew she fell out of bed.

Looking very wise, the child said: "Well, I heard something drop and kinda thought it was me."

ARTLETT BACK ROM MIDWEST; BRUSH SAFE

By FRANK H. MELOON
Financial Editor

First Assistant Postmaster General John H. Bartlett, former governor of New Hampshire, has just returned from an extended journey through the Mid-West. He has been making arrangements for pushing the government's building program. This program offers employment for thousands of workers, and is a valuable factor in the making of prosperity. Boston is to share in the work, as readers of this column already know.

* * *

President Matthew C. Brush of "A. I. C." and holder of executive posts in numerous rails and industrials, tells me he completed his airplane journey, which we recently mentioned, without mishap, and promises to call on us as soon as he reaches Boston. President Brush was formerly head of the Boston Elevated, and is still connected with the company. I find a good many people do not know what his official "L" capacity is. For their benefit we may say he is one of the directors.

I am told Col. Charles Hayden, senior partner of Hayden, Stone & Co., has received many congratulations on his being selected as chairman of the Republican finance committee for New York State. Boston men in the world of finance are legion, and their services are in widespread demand. A Quincy writer recently referred to a speed boat going at "the terrific speed of 35 miles an hour," which would not impress a good many automobilists as excessive. And more recently considerable attention has been paid by the press to speed boat commuters.

Away back in 1914 Mr. Hayden was commuting between Newport and New York in the Sovereign, then the fastest craft of her type in the world, capable of making 40 miles an hour. Mr. Hayden is a member of the New York and Eastern Yacht Clubs.

* * *

It was once related of Col. Hayden, who is very wealthy, that he "couldn't stand Manhattan shaves" and had "imported" Joseph J. Dutra, a Boston knight of the razor, to attend to his tonsorial needs. Born in Boston, educated at "Tech," Col. Hayden began his financial career as a ticker boy with the old firm of Clark, Ward & Co.

* * *

Boston Chamber of Commerce data on the steady growth of New England emphasizes a "business index" on which we have always laid considerable stress. It illustrates the great importance of Postmaster Roland M. Baker's efficiently handled and able forces. A 14.9 per cent increase in seven years is certainly impressive. That is what our postoffice receipts show.

Roland M. Baker

This might be entitled "Adventures of a Dollar Bill." Episcopal Women's Association, of which Mrs. S. E. Stevens, legislative candidate, is head, conceived the idea of circulating a dollar bill about two months ago with a note asking users to tell for what purpose it was spent. The bill has just "come back."

* * *

The annotations show it was spent six times for salaries, seven times for tobacco, thrice for candy, twice for shaves, once for soap, once for suspenders and twice for toothbrushes and toothpaste. A lady notes sadly that it did not once find its way into a church collection plate!

* * *

If the adventures of this dollar bill are a criterion, it is no wonder tobacco stocks have been in the Wall and State Street limelights!

Most active issue in Boston Stock Exchange dealings yesterday was International. Buying followed "tips" from brokers to customers. The stock has sold this year at 34½ for a high and at 25¾ for a low. It pays nothing, according to one New York financial writer, but this is at least somewhat misleading, as the annual dividend has been maintained at the rate of $1.20. This has been paid in the face of heavy losses due to the packers war in the Argentine, but the company has a big cash reserve and the struggle was reported amicably concluded several months ago.

It was $26 a share when we first decided it was suitable for some investment lists with a strong background of sound bonds and preferred stocks. It is listed on the Boston Stock Exchange and traded in on the New York Curb, but because it is not listed on the New York Stock Exchange it is ineligible for purchase by some of the very cautious investment trust bargain hunters.

RUTH ELDER TO FINISH FIRST FILM SOON

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Copyright, 1928 by Universal Service

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 23—If Ramon Novarro finishes "Pagan" in five weeks, he will have a chance to sing the leading role in "The Desert Song" for Warner Brothers. Darryl Zanuck is so sold on the idea, that he has been paging Irving Thalberg every day for a week, asking for the loan of Novarro.

It would be a big chance for Novarro since it's to be the very first musical comedy on the screen, and Jack Warner has determined that he will obtain the very best musical talent available. Just in case that European trip which took Novarro away from Hollywood for so many weeks, makes it impossible for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to part with their star, well then, here is another thought. Walter Pidgeon who sings well, screens well, and troupes adequately, will be asked to sign a contract pronto.

Roy Del Ruth, whose direction of "The Terror" pleased the Warner studio, will handle the megaphone, sound device, et cetera, for "The Desert Song."

THEY ALL SAY that the studios are running full blast but it does not seem to me there are as many companies working as there were a few weeks ago. At the Paramount lot, Louise Brooks, Richard Dix, and the rest of that company were getting ready to leave for Gallup, New Mexico, where scenes for "Redskin" will be shot. In Northern Arizona, where this film will be produced, the heat will fry an egg on the pavement, but fall will soon be here. Ruth Elder is finishing her first movie, and if she photographs as well as she looks in real life, she ought to be a satisfactory screen asset. Evelyn Brent worked all day at the University of California and admitted that she was tired. Bebe Daniels sends word to friends out here that she is having one grand, glorious time at Great Neck where she is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Meighan.

RUTH CHATTERTON'S golden voice is to be put into the films. Ruth who has acted silently with Emil Jannings these many weeks, and whose voice lends itself exceptionally well to the sound device, has been persuaded by Jesse L. Lasky to make the first all-talking picture for Famous. Negotiations are now on for a well known novel—and if the sale is completed, that will be Ruth's first talkie. Roy Pomeroy will direct her and William de Mille will write the scenario and stay close on the job to watch proceedings. They must have expected just such a thing to happen at Paramount, for some weeks ago Ruth was asked to make a voice test, which she did with satisfactory results.

"RED" GOLDEN has been on the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer lot since Hector was a pup. He has been assistant director to King Vidor, Robert Leonard and to other of Metro's finest. Many Marion Davies' pictures have seen "Red" standing by the camera, helping here and there, always cheerful, always full of suggestions and making himself indispensable. Now has come Red's big moment. He has been handed the megaphone and told to direct "Honeymoon" with Flash, the dog, Polly Moran and Harry Gribbon. If he makes good there will be other pictures—and if thought waves mean anything, Red is going to land on both feet.

GEORGE K. ARTHUR returns from his native England without spats, walking-stick or monocle. But he did return with $1000 won on the pool on the boat and a readiness to return to work. That last little line comes true immediately, for everything is in readiness for the next George Arthur-Karl Dane comedy. It is to be called "All at Sea" and will again have Chuck Reisner directing. Chuck, by the way, was just about to get himself another job when Louis B. Mayer and the rest of the M.-G.-M. bosses urged him to stick.

A PRETTY girl on the Conrad Veidt set was pointed out as Ruth Marie Jannings, a daughter of Emil. Miss Jannings seems a chip off the old block so far as acting is concerned. She takes to it like a duck to water. I never can get these Veidt-Jannings relationships straightened out. Mrs. Jannings was formerly married to Veidt and I thought at first the daughter was the child of the fascinating Gussie and Conrad, but it seems Emil Jannings is her papa.

GRANT STORE OPENS IN HUB MONDAY

An idea, $1000 and the business ability of William T. Grant, of Malden, all crystallize Monday in the opening of the new W. T. Grant Co. department store in the old Talbot Building, 395 Washington st., now the Grant Building.

The idea and the business ability are the same that Grant possessed at age of 20 when he was buyer for a Salem store. But the idea has become a reality and $1000 he possessed has become a fortune in the chain of 198 Grant stores doing an annual business of $55,000,000 in 29 states.

The W. T. Grant Co. is essentially a New England corporation and its new Boston store, specializing in quality merchandise at $1 or less, will be a monument based upon the business acumen of New England men.

GRANT IS CHAIRMAN

W. T. Grant is chairman of the board of the corporation; C. E. Freeman, for 20 years with Thomas Long & Co., of Boston, is president; F. A. Powdrell, for many years with Powdrell & Alexander, of Boston, is treasurer; and B. A. Rowe, of Lee, and K. D. Gardner, of Fall River, are vice-presidents.

F. F. Taylor of Fall River will be manager of the new Boston store.

The Grant organization, replacing the old Talbot Clothing Co., has leased the entire Talbot building and spent more than $250,000 for remodelling and equipment. The store will occupy the main floor and basement as salesroom, with extensive stock rooms on the fifth floor. The second, third and fourth floors will be leased for offices.

The only exception to the $1-top price in the new store will be found in the radio and millinery departments.

Plans for Monday's opening and for the handling of huge crowds have been perfected for several days. More than 600 young women from Greater Boston have been trained as saleswomen and most of them have been in the store for three weeks, marking and placing merchandise and receiving training under personnel directors.

EXECUTIVES FROM N. E.

Two score assistant managers from nearby Grant stores will be on hand, and a large detail of police will regulate traffic both inside and outside the store.

Almost all of the chief executives of the Grant company are New England men. Eighty-five of its officials and managers come from this district. The corporation last year contributed to New England prosperity by selling within New England's boundaries $5,250,000 worth of New England made products.

of floods and think carefully before letting private interests control any more water power. Disclosures as to power trust propaganda impress him.

Governor Smith would let all states with a just claim share in power generated by the Colorado river. He'd retain government ownership to Muscle Shoals, but let government rent out power to get what it has spent.

Governor Smith wants "reasonable contentment for those who toil and thinks the government should be concerned about 'the legitimate interest of labor.'"

He believes in "collective bargaining" to put labor on a basis of equality with the employer, and says "labor is not a commodity." He endorses the opinion of Justice Taft, who said "Government of relations between capital and labor by injunction is an absurdity."

Governor Smith wants "legislation for the protection and advancement of working men and women, proper care of maternity, infancy and childhood, and safeguarding of public health."

True equality of women is advocated in "all avenues of opportunity for which they can qualify."

Veterans in distress should be looked after by government as promptly as they attended to their war duties.

Governor Smith favors strict immigration, but objects to "principles of restriction designed to discriminate against certain nationalities."

His speech covers the ground. The country has heard from both candidates, and the fight is on. It will probably be mild and gentle until the end of September or later. Then you'll see a battle.

CANADA NEEDS FARM WORKERS

Many sections of Western Canada have already commenced to harvest what is generally expected to be the largest wheat crop that the prairie provinces of the Dominion have ever produced. Rust, frost and all the various ills which beset the average crop have been escaped this year and according to the latest estimates the wheat crop alone will yield 530 million bushels.

Implement companies estimate that between 4000 and 5000 machines which make one operation of cutting and threshing will be in use by farmers this month.

J. E. Laforce of the Colonization Department, Canadian National Railways, who is in Boston in connection with arrangements for obtaining help for the harvest fields of Western Canada, said that although a large number of men have already been sent from Boston, workers are still urgently needed. Those desiring to go to the harvest fields can procure full information in regard to special low fares and dates of excursions from T. E. P. Pringle, General Agent, Canadian National Railways, 333 Washington st.

B. & M. TO CONDUCT QUEBEC EXCURSION

A reduced rate excursion to Quebec over Labor Day is announced by the Boston & Maine R. R.

The Shrine of Ste. Anne de Beaupre, mecca of many thousands of tourists, may be visited for only 60 cents additional if the round-trip ticket is purchased with the rail ticket to Quebec.

The excursion leaves North Station, Boston, Friday, Aug. 31, at 8:25 p. m. (E. S. T.) by special train, arriving at Quebec at 9:50 a. m., Saturday. Returning, the train leaves Quebec, Monday, Sept. 3, at 2:30 p. m., (E. S. T.) arriving home early Tuesday morning. The round-trip fare is but $12.

CHRYSLER PROPOSES TO SELL 30,000 SHARES

Chrysler Corp. proposes to sell 30,000 additional shares of no-par common stock at not less than $57.50, price to be determined by officials, according to New York Stock Exchange listing notice. Proceeds are to be used for working capital.

NEW PONTOONS AID PLANE

Skyways, Incorporated, has equipped the Velie Monocoupe with pontoons with astonishing results. The plane leaves the water in almost dead air, with a heavy load, very rapidly. Wednesday afternoon Lieut. Snow started out on a trip down the Cape to Onset, Buzzards Bay and Megansett and back to Boston.

Olcott S. Payson believes in aviation. He decided it was too hot to remain in Boston, so he jumped in a Challenger plane belonging to Skyways, Inc. In one hour and 10 minutes he arrived in the backyard of the Payson homestead, north of Portland.

Thousands of persons are expected to attend the air meet, which will be held at the new Hyannis airport and landing field, September 7, 8, 9. Bob Ayling, manager of the field, promises one of the best air meets this season.

Sending business announcements via air mail is being introduced as a new novelty by several manufacturers.

HAROLD BROOKS GOING ABROAD ON S. S. SCYTHIA

Harold Brooks, president of the Brooks-Skinner Co., Quincy, large builders of wood and steel garages and bungalows in New England, left for his 32nd trip abroad on the S. S. Scythia. He will visit his London office after which he plans to make an extended tour through England, France and Germany. He expects to make many large purchases of raw materials on his trip to fill the numerous contracts which are now planned for fall construction.

One of the interesting features of the Brooks voyage is the fact that he has traveled for the past 10 years on the same ship and is personally acquainted with all the officers aboard. The contractor expects to be gone until the middle of September.

EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS

CANADIANS IN YACHT RACES LEAD YANKS

The racing did not go any too well for the Yankees in their crew contests with Canadians at Marblehead.

The Royal Canadian Yacht Club took the morning match from the Eastern Yacht Club, 6 to 4. In the afternoon the locals made a better showing, and for a time appeared to have a sweep over their rivals, but the visitors rallied and held the Marblehead crews to a tie.

With four of the six scheduled races sailed, the score stands Royal Canadian Yacht Club 23, Eastern Yacht Club 17.

The outlook for an American victory looks dubious. The Eastern crews in order to win the match must score a sweep in both matches today. A sweep in one of the races and victory in the other will give to the Americans a tie.

Both races were sailed in light airs and a left-over slop from the early breeze. Reversing the process of the previous day, he committee in charge, consisting of George Owen, chairman, E. M. K. Wedd of Toronto and Henry A. Morss of Marblehead, gave the yachts a triangular course.

In the morning race Norman Gooderham and his Canadian crew had the Hornet, Thomas K. Wade's Canadian crew was in the Falcon, Commodore Charles Francis Adams' quartet were sailing the Venturer, and Devereux Barker's crew was racing the Norn.

The morning start went to the Canadians by a big margin, and the Venture and Norn were covered respectively by the craft sailed by Gooderham and Wade.

Soon after the start the yachts split into two divisions, the Hornet covering the Norn to northward, while the Venturer and Falcon fought it out to the southward. The Eastern skippers never got a chance to break away from their rivals.

On this weather leg Adams seemed to have trouble getting the Venturer going properly. At the mark Gooderham in the Hornet led by 16 seconds.

'Twixt Tee and Cup

By BILL GRIMES

There are few, if any, better experts on grass than John Shanahan, the veteran Brae Burn Country Club greenskeeper. Even among his own trade he is looked upon as the ranking authority.

What higher tribute can be paid to his ability? Yet, when crab grass developed on some of the Brae Burn greens, John Shanahan was overruled by the committee and ordered to remove this menace.

Unless the weather is dry and hot from now on some of the Brae Burn greens will not be right for the coming championship. A rainy spell between now and the 10th of next month, which will be qualifying day, will play havoc with Brae Burn.

Bill Blaney, the New England amateur champion, has laid aside his clubs for two weeks. Blaney left yesterday for Squirrel Island, Me., where he will rest up for the United States amateur championship.

Blaney has played too much golf this season and during the Essex four ball last week he displayed signs of staleness and therefore decided that it would be to his advantage to put aside his clubs and forget golf for the next fortnight.

C. Searles "Mickie" Reed of Thorny Lea had a fine chance recently to set up a new record for his home course, when he had five 3's going out, but a six on the 6th hole upset the works. As it was Mickie was out in 35 and back in 36 for a fine 71. But he paid Bill Black and partner.

By the way, the public course at Taunton, which Eugene F. Wogan of the Essex County Club laid out for Searles Reed, will be opened this Fall. Reed and Wogan were in Taunton recently and were very much pleased with the way the construction is progressing.

From a most reputable authority the report has come out that the large golf ball will be played in 1930. For some years there has been considerable controversy concerning the advisability of the adoption of a larger ball so as to eliminate some of the outlandish drives now in vogue.

The new and larger ball has been tried out in both this country and England, and has met with the approval of the U. S. G. A. and the governing body of golf in the British Isles.

Somebody erred when they informed Harry Wright that the 73 he scored last Sunday was a new record for the Marlborough Country Club.

In the open tournament this spring at Marlborough, Carl Nettelbladt put together a pair of 35's which knocked four strokes off the old record held by John Cowan of Oakley and Tommie Welch of Scarboro.

From now until the day of the qualifying round of the United States amateur championship at Brae Burn, there will be any number of low rounds reported, but on September 10th, it is safe to predict that any player under a 162, will be in action for at least one round of match play and also that many of the makers of pre-championship low scoring feats will be absent after September 10th.

The two new short holes at Woodland made a decided hit with the field during the qualifying round of the mid-summer medal and match play tournament. Carl Treat came in for many congratulations for the fine work in both the laying out and the construction of these holes.

The new arrangement at Woodland is a great improvement as it eliminates practically all of the previous long walks from greens to tees, besides more equally balancing the layout which is now 35 each way.

The Bear Hill Golf Club is offering a special prize of a custom made suit of clothes for any player who lowers the course record of 70, during the annual open on Friday and Saturday.

Although T. Philips Perkins, the present British amateur champion, and William Tweddell, who held that title in 1926, will both be at Brae Burn; Edward Storey will be the most closely watched invader.

Storey played at Baltusral in 1926 and only for the uncanny putting of Francis Ouimet would have defeated the Woodland ace.

GUILFORD TIES COURSE MARK IN MATCH

Rockport, Aug. 23—Jesse Guilford and Joe Norton took on Fred J. Wright, Jr., and Billy McPhail in an exhibition foursome at the Rockport Club and won quite handily, four up. A gallery of about 300 followed the quartet.

Guilford was the medalist, turning in a fine 71, which tied the course record, held jointly by Francis Ouimet, James Guiler Jr., and Russell Hale. A long putt on the 18th green was short about an inch for a 70. Guilford and Norton had a better ball of 69.

The Wright-McPhail team took the lead on the short fourth with a pair of threes and took another hole on the fifth when Wright came through with a birdie four.

The sixth went to Guilford and Norton. Norton's splendid recovery on the seventh was one of the features of the afternoon. He topped his drive but a splendid second and equally good iron shot brought him to the edge of the green. A chip shot dropped into the cup for a birdie four, winning the hole and squaring the match.

Birdies by both Guilford and Norton to fours for the other pair won the eighth, while they also won the ninth to make it 2 up at the turn. Another birdie 3 by Guilford on the 12th gave that pair another hole. They won the 15th and the rest were halved.

Guilford's driving was a feature. Only once, on the 17th, did he play his second shot ahead of the others. He turned in a very spectacular shot on No. 1 on the second round.

His drive went close in to a stone wall. With his back to the green he played his second to carom off the wall and it was perfect, the ball landing about 20 feet from the pin.

Winslow Win Pierce of Lexington, a product of the pilgrims in the heavyweight division who is under the management of Charlie Cardio, is now ready for action. Pierce has been under the watchful eye of Charlie for the last two months and has shown vast improvement in his boxing and now Charlie has decided that Win is ready and will be seen in a local ring very shortly.

JIMMY PICARDI AFTER BOUT WITH GOLDSTEIN

Jimmy Picardi, the East Boston flyweight, is hot after a shot at Harry Goldstein for the New England flyweight title.

Jimmy has beaten about all the flyweights in New England. All that remains now is Goldstein; if Goldstein refuses to fight, Jimmy would gladly take on Frankie Genaro.

NATIONAL POLICIES OF THE HEARST NEWSPAPERS

1. An agreement of English-speaking peoples to preserve peace among themselves and promote the peace of the world.
2. A constitutional amendment to provide for the election of United States Senators in numbers proportionate to the population of each State, but no State to have less than two Senators. A reapportionment of Congressional representation immediately after every census, or in case of the failure of Congress so to act, to make the apportionment automatic at the end of the first Congressional session, the proportion of population for each representative in each case to be that of the existing Congress.
3. A separate Department of the Army, of the Navy and of the Air Forces, all united under a Secretary of National Defence.
4. Federal action to the limit of Federal Government powers to abolish illiteracy among the people of the United States, and the creation of a Secretary of Education.
5. Necessary measures to secure the election of Congress in November and its installation on the 1st of January following, and the inauguration of a President on the 1st of January immediately following his election in November.

Flirting With Death

Jaywalking in Congress Street

At least nine-tenths of all safety first exhortations are addressed to the motorist.

Is the PEDESTRIAN never at fault?

How about the jaywalker, the fellow who crosses the street in the middle of the block, instead of on the cross-walk?

In the noon hour, a day or two ago, a newspaperman of our acquaintance rode from this office to the North Station by taxicab. In Congress street the north-bound traffic was in two lines, south-bound in one.

The cab was about midway between Water and State streets when north-bound traffic came to a halt. An elderly blind man, feeling his way with a cane, stepped from the east walk and headed across the street. He came within nothing of being run down by a truck. The truck driver, a rugged young man with red hair, delivered a speech to him.

A younger man followed the route of the blind man. He narrowly missed being crushed by another truck. He was angry with the truck driver, asking him why the naughty word of four letters he didn't blow his horn. Imagine! But the truckman was not dumb. HE wanted to know why the same naughty word the pedestrian did not cross at the place made and provided.

The pedestrian who crosses the street between street intersections does so because he prefers taking a chance dodging in and out among automobiles to walking to the nearest cross-walk.

He's a jaywalker. The traffic committee of the American Motorists' Association would take care of him, and of the careless driver as well, by means of a model traffic code, providing, in part, that:

> "The pedestrian, at an intersection, shall always have the right of way. Between intersections, the motorist shall always have the right of way."

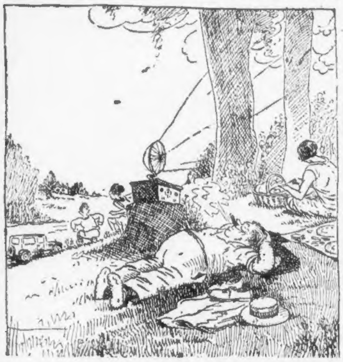
The effect of these regulations would be to stigmatize jaywalking but at the same time yield to the pedestrian unquestioned supremacy at intersections.

In Massachusetts, as elsewhere, the majority of those killed by automobiles are pedestrians. Registrar Parker of the Motor Vehicle Department says the pedestrian IS frequently thoughtless, but holds to the belief that the moral responsibility rests with the driver. That may be true as a rule, even though it does not hold in such instances as these reported from Congress street.

"Taking It Easy"

No Harm, Much Gained



A CAMPAIGN SPEECH IN 1928

The Ohio State Journal shows this pleasant scene, the head of the family listening to the candidate, while mother gets the picnic ready and the children exercise their muscles.

Millions will hear speeches this year more or less in this fashion. Sitting comfortably in their homes or out in the open, they will rest and let the candidates pour out their arguments through the ether.

Some think that modern life "softens us."

The distinguished Mr. Rogers, social philosopher, says we don't win so many prizes at the Olympic Games because riding in automobiles weakens our legs and wills.

That's all nonsense, or, to be more exact, "hooey."

This picture of a campaign speech is better than the old arrangement, where men crowded uncomfortably in a hall or around a platform in the open, hearing only half of what the roaring individual was saying.

In old days the important candidates—Smith and Hoover this year, for instance—were only heard by a few that could get near them. When they speak this year they will be heard by tens of millions, each one of the millions listening comfortably, undisturbed.

Anything that makes human beings more comfortable, everything that allows them to use their brains instead of using their legs, is that much to the good.

True, the gentleman in the picture ought not to be so big around the waist. It is a disgrace for anybody to have that shape and it is unnecessary.

But he wouldn't lose it listening to a tenth-rate speaker in a stuffy hall or getting kerosene on his coat in an old-fashioned torchlight parade.

PEOPLE ARE GETTING TIRED OF WAR

By DR. FRANK CRANE

PERHAPS the end of war is nearer than we suppose. The hope of the intelligent pacifists is not so much in the schemes of Mr. Wilson or Mr. Kellogg as it is in the change of public opinion.

Reason and logic and even sentiment are sometimes impotent to make people stop acting like fools, yet they do stop sometimes for another reason, the greatest reason in the world. They get tired.

Nobody ever authoritatively settled the question as to whether the Trinitarians or the Unitarians were correct, nor whether the Guelphs or Ghibellines were right; folks just got tired of the argument and went home. You can't stay heated about a question when no one will listen to you.

One result of the last war is slowly becoming apparent. People are fed up on war.

Time was when the army offered the greatest career open to young men. Almost all superior youths expected to be soldiers some day.

War with its banners and trumpet was the most exciting adventure known.

A change seems to have come over the world. Not only the American Secretary of State and the gentleman in charge of the League of Nations are being seriously listened to in official quarters, but the people themselves are losing interest in militarism.

In the recent celebration of Bastille day in Paris—and Bastille day is France's Fourth of July—all the gay uniforms of France's past were conspicuously absent. There was no review of troops at Longchamps calculated to impress the beholder with France's military might. There was no feverish show of preparedness. It was only an official function. It was not a display.

The New York Times correspondent says that Chauvinism is as dead as a dodo in France. People cheered the soldiers just as they cheered the firemen and police.

This correspondent says that neither America nor France feels her liberty any longer in question and the Fourth of July here and the 14th there are only excuses for a public holiday.

When people get bored with war, it will go.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

ED'S wife has been out of town. Packed her bags full of figured georgette fluff and gone off to spend a couple of months in the mountains. The city is so hot. She simply can't stand it. Ed—oh, that's different. Ed can't leave his job. Ed has to stay in the city. Of course.

All over the country other pretty wives are packing bags and flitting for the mountains or the seashore. They can't stand the heat. Their husbands? Oh—that's different. Their husbands will stay with the job in the city. Of course.

Thinking about it, I remembered Tony. Tony was a longshoreman I used to know. Once I ate lunch with Tony down at Pier 41. Big pail full of fresh, hot ravioli.

Says I to Tony: "Some eats, Tony! Where'd ju raise 'em?"

"Uh-huh" agreed Tony garlicly. "Some eats! Every noon my old woman she bring heem to me."

"Your wife comes way down here to bring your lunch?"

"Uh-huh!"

"But the other wives—all the gang's wives—do they bring down hot lunches too?"

"Aw-nay!" grinned Tony. "They be American." And with that Tony dove into the ravioli and I stopped kicking the piles.

So the American wives don't bring down hot lunches. And no one expects them to bring hot lunches—least of all, Tony. And why? And how? And what makes it all happen? And is it right or well that it should happen? Is it the program that our forefathers laid out in that first great vision of democracy—democracy in the home as well as the nation? Or has it departed from there by devious and grievous roads?

Tony's wife brings him his hot lunch. She does not do this out of sentimentality. There is probably much less sentimentality in the union of Tony and his Lucia than between any American couple of their station. She does it because it is a good industrial proposition. Her Tony does better work on a warm lunch. She, Lucia, and all the little Tonys and Lucias profit if Tony does better work. Therefore, she puts her shawl over head and takes down the warm lunch.

Lucia belongs to the peasant class—a class we do not have in America. Everywhere the wives in the corresponding class in Spain and France, in England and Belgium, in Russia and Germany, in Japan and China think of life and marriage very much as Lucia does and contribute a service of which that hot lunch is a symbol. Also, the wives in the class above the peasant class and in the class above that, unto the highest class of all, in those foreign countries serve their families and their men in much the same spirit as Lucia serves hers.

Only in America is there a difference. Only in America does the woman insist that she herself be served, not as the mistress of the home, but as a charming individual. The difference in her position is proverbial. Every continental writer has commented on it.

NOW IS IT A GOOD DIFFERENCE?

We don't want beasts of burden. Neither do we want parasites. But what do we want? What's the happy medium? What do YOU think of it all?

Yes, I have some ideas on the subject. Lots of 'em, in fact. But I'm not going to air them just now. I want to hear what is YOUR idea of a Wife's rights and a Wife's Responsibilities. Have we gone ahead of the people of Europe and the Orient, or are we really falling far behind them? And what of the men? Come on! Off with the lid and let's have the explosion.

HOW DO AMERICAN WIVES STACK UP IN COMPARISON WITH THE OTHER BREEDS?

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

True it is that covetousness is rich, modesty starves.

—Phaedrus.

Passionate expressions and vehement assertions are no arguments, unless it be of the weakness of the cause that is defended by them, or of the man that defends it.

—Chillingworth.

The blessings of fortune are the lowest; the next are the bodily advantages of strength and health; but the superlative blessings in fine, are those of the mind. —L'Estrange.

New York Day by Day
by
O.O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 23—It has become a stunt this summer for members of what is known as cafe society to exploit ladies and gentlemen whose fame smacks a trifle of the notorious. They become guests of honor at the spreading restaurant tables.

One was a curly-haired cabaret performer who shook the sawdust from his feet to be glorified in a musical comedy. Then there was a college-bred Indian, the obscure author of a dirty book, a shaggy-haired foreigner who told ribald stories, and several others.

Jovial Mae West, who portrays a hard-boiled Bowery gal of 30 years ago, is also the object of much attention, being invited to teas, apartment parties and cafes. One of the high spots was to visit her dressing room after a performance and listen to her picturesque observations.

Among Miss West's experiences while struggling for recognition as a playwright and star was a brief "stretch on the island" because of the realism of her play, "Sex." She is said to have a hilarous as well as sarcastic style in recounting this episode.

The object of cafe society is to be noticed and there seems to be no better way than to drag in someone by the heels who has achieved big thick headlines. The story of one freakish dinner party and its result is being told about the town.

A hostess was arranging with the proprietor of a cafe for a dinner party and dropped a few names of those who would be among the guests. The manner of the proprietor abruptly froze. "I'm sorry," he said, "I cannot serve you. This is a restaurant—not a freak show."

It is in night clubs the chasers of near celebrities find dandy settings for their efforts to show off. Here the atmosphere is mellow and those who look upon scandals as perfectly dandy do so only for the evening.

THIRD AVE. has a curiosity shop specializing in Distinguished Service Crosses. Heroes who have fallen on evil days go there to pawn the symbol of their courage in better days. They receive but $2 for their cross and few ever return to reclaim them. This furnishes a theme for something or other. I don't know just what.

PEOPLE living in the neighborhood of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in West 54th st. are said to set clocks by his methodical goings and comings. He departs in the morning almost invariably at the same hour and returns with the same precision. No mid-town home has the regularity of the Rockefeller household. The lights are dimmed at the same hour—about 10:30. Young Mr. Rockefeller—he is really 54—has a passion for household economy. Any extravagance by servants is tabooed. For years he never tipped, but now he gives the exact but customary 10 per cent. He is a pleasant neighbor, having a bow for servants in nearby households and frequently stops to chat with the street cleaner in the block.

THE Rockefeller home while ample is not movie-starrish. It is of stone and has a gymnasium on the roof. After nightfall it is not distinguished from any other house on the block save for a man in plain clothes who walks up and down in front of the house. He is the private night watch.

NEW YORK now has 30 plants turning out airplanes and accessories in the metropolitan area. There are reported to be 700 privately owned planes in the city.

OVERHEARD near 47th and Broadway:

"How did the act go?"

"If it hadn't been for the curtain going up and down, you'd never know we were on."

Life is a good deal like that for many of us.

4,000,000 New Cars Yearly

Yes, We Need Them

In this prosperous land, automobiles are built and junked in great numbers. In 1927 more than two million three hundred thousand cars were abandoned, or broken up for parts, as compared with three million three hundred and ninety-three thousand new cars manufactured.

Some organization should solve the difficult used car problem by arranging to dump used cars in foreign markets at low prices. If the few big companies would combine, they could do it.

Encouraging to motor men and oil men is the fact that Americans are learning to give their cars real use, for business time saving, as well as for week-end recreation.

In 1927 the number of registered cars increased less than 5 per cent, while use of gasoline by motors increased 13 per cent.

Twenty-three million one hundred and twenty-five thousand one hundred automobiles were registered in 1927, one million seventy-eight thousand and eighty-seven more than in 1926. Mr. Ford's estimate that we need four million new cars per year is low.

More Horrors

A Vestless Prince

The Prince of Wales appeared in a gray flannel suit without a waistcoat. It is hard for this nation to realize what that means to the tailors of England. For the vulgar herd to follow the American example of no coat or waistcoat is bearable, but royalty should be above it—never mind if it is hot.

That's how the British tailors feel. If men do away with the waistcoat, the next thing the coat will go, and you will have a shirtwaist humanity.
